LET'S TALK
IT OVER...

Brother Robert Al Walker, Phi '28, of Clinton, South Carolina wrote the following letter last May.

"Dear Brothers:

This is not a complaint—merely a suggestion. The back cover of the Chakett is usually devoted to getting alumni interested in recommending candidates for pledging. The April 1964 issue included a couple of stirring slogans: "Alumni—Rushing is Your Responsibility"

"You Can do no Greater Service For Your Fraternity Than Recommend Desirable Candidates for Membership"

This should be removed and the space devoted to something more productive and less insulting to those alumni who have taken it seriously and have had the effrontery to recommend sons and brothers for membership in a Chi Phi Chapter other than their own—to have the son or brother rushed anemically or not at all. My second son decided a school other than Amherst had a curriculum more suitable for him. I was pleased initially that it had a Chi Phi Chapter. I alerted the chapter to the fact that this boy was a DOUBLE legacy, father and brother, both Phi. He was not really rushed by Chi Phi and did not receive a bid. My letter was acknowledged after rushing was over. My son was very happy in pledging another "national" Fraternity.

Fraternally yours,
S/Robert A. Walker, Phi '28

Brother Walker's point is well made and many an alumnus has been deeply hurt because his recommendation to a chapter was completely ignored or because the chapter failed to rush the "prospective member" in a proper manner. The word "proper" is used without definition for proper or adequate as far as the chapter is concerned is not necessarily adequate or proper by alumni standards.

Most chapters are seriously interested in obtaining rush recommendations and do follow through in a manner compatible with Chi Phi tradition. Most chapters understand the importance of alumni good will and interest to the continued existence of a strong Fraternity chapter. Every year, however, a few chapters, or a few members of a given chapter either refuse to be aware of the "right" of the alumnus to recommend candidates, or if "aware" decide to assert their "privilege to select" by virtually having two standards—one for their own candidates, and one for alumni recommended candidates (legacy or otherwise). It is a problem as old as fraternity. No ready solution is apparent.

All chapters want alumni to recommend prospects. Most chapters will rush the candidate in an effective manner.

The Fraternity of Tomorrow

BY DR. JOHN T. BONNER, JR., EXECUTIVE DEAN FOR STUDENT RELATIONS,
The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, at the Alumni Recognition Banquet, November 12, 1964

THE FACT THAT I have been chosen to talk about the fraternity of the future should be comforting in itself. Unlike many of our recent authors, I sincerely believe that fraternities will continue to exist—and not only to exist but to play vital, dramatic roles in our future educational enterprises. Last year we entertained a top level Russian diplomat in one of the private dining rooms of the Ohio Union. One of our sophomores who had observed this distinguished Soviet at dinner was heard to comment, "He ate like there was no tomorrow." And then added fearfully, "Do you suppose he knows something?" Well, I believe there is a tomorrow for fraternities and sororities, and I would like to have you join me in peering into their future.

In my opinion, the fraternity of the future will have a more acceptable image than does today's Greek-letter organization. Our future fraternity may not be significantly different from the chapter of today but its image, its reputation, its acceptance will be vastly improved.

The Unchanging Image

Portraits of fraternities have remained virtually unchanged on the mental canvases of their critics for an entire generation. Although the raccoon coat has gone the way of all flesh, fraternity men continue to live in the image of "Joe College" with flask on hip and bloody paddle in hand. Several of the articles about fraternities which I have read recently appear to have emanated from an abysmal depth of ignorance in combination with a plethora of biased opinion. They would have been factual and timely stories if written three or four decades ago. Fraternity men have changed. The change began when combat matured veterans of World War II returned to the campus. They were not in the mood for the racy aspects of college life—and neither were their wives—nor children. But it was probably that dramatic moment when Sputnik I first twinkled across the sky that fraternities and their members changed most dramatically. To fraternity men, as well as their independent associates, scholastic conquest became a kind of fetish. Math, Chemistry, and Physics were no longer merely tolerated by the man behind the fraternity badge—they were eagerly attacked to the very heights and depths of their precious scientific dimensions.

It is interesting to observe, however, that the newly arrived freshman, lacking these facts, fails to perceive the important changes in fraternity life. Passed down to him by his parents, reinforced by erroneous articles in magazines, he still visualizes the fraternity man in a type of hip flask and bloody paddle syndrome. To him, the fraternity is the antithesis of scholarship, and as a result, frequently he shuns membership in the houses of the Greeks.

Our prospective freshman is a man or woman vitally committed to scholarship. Just as high school, once the terminus of formal education, became only a way-station on the route to a college diploma, the baccalaureate has become for many only a station stop on the journey to a graduate or professional degree. Advanced degrees were once referred to as post-baccalaureate training. Now, many of our undergraduates speak of their curricula as pre-law or pre-medicine or pre-dentistry.

It has been fascinating to me to observe, in our pre-college orientation sessions, the growing number of our entering freshmen who have already set their sights on a graduate or professional degree. If they do not realize it at first, they soon learn that the key required to unlock the doors to graduate education is demonstrated scholastic excellence. For this reason many of our high-potential students fail to consider fraternity membership for fear that fraternity affiliation will dissipate their scholastic endeavors. These top-level students are afraid that joining a Greek-letter social organization would jeopardize their chances of entering the rarefied atmosphere of graduate education.

Fraternity Averages Higher

We have facts to show that these fears are unfounded. We have examined statistics which reveal that fraternity and sorority grade-point averages are consistently above the all-university averages. We have observed that our recent Greeks are now rushing with their eyes firmly fixed upon the candidates' academic potential. We have seen the study table become a fraternity institution. We have heard academics discussed in chapter houses to the extent that scholastic topics, believe it or not, now rival discussions of the opposite sex. We are firmly convinced that fraternities and sororities are now carrying the gleaming torch of scholarship with greater vigor than at any time in their history.

This image of the fraternity as the champion of high scholastic purpose and endeavor has, however, never adequately been conveyed to the non-fraternity observer.

Our fraternity of tomorrow will project a better image because of what you and I are able to do today. We must see that our fraternities reach out to high school principals and counselors with the story that Greek-letter organizations are, indeed, champions of high scholastic endeavor. In addition, our fraternities must accelerate their programs of inviting non-fraternity professors to their houses for informal discussion sessions. Finally, our social groups must continue to establish even higher scholastic standards for membership. By following these suggested paths, we will correct eventually the much distorted image which we have long endured.

For example, if we are able to implement these ideas, tomorrow's fraternity will have solved today's problem of being unable to provide competent upper-class leadership. It is no secret that our fraternities and sororities of today still lack the mature appeal necessary to hold their outstanding juniors and seniors. Our older men are moving from chapter house to apartment house. Our senior women are turning in their pins. The resulting leadership vacuum is filled with the inexperienced and the immature.

Many of our fraternity problems such as unstable finances, unplanned parties, and underemphasized scholarship may be traced directly to the lack of mature, stable leadership.

The Problem of Leadership

An ancient Latin proverb stated that, "An army of stags led by a lion would be better than an army of lions led by a stag." Due to the disappearance of juniors and seniors, many of our Greek-letter organizations are led by stags. It takes a lion to arrive at a conservative, probable budget and demand adherence to its limitations. It takes an experienced lion to supervise a dignified dance rather than relying on an impromptu, sweat-shirted beer blast. It requires a mature lion to set higher scholastic standards and demand their attainment. A freshman or sophomore stag has not yet learned that the terms "great leader" and "good guy" are not necessarily synonymous.

As a perennial optimist, I sincerely believe that our teenage stags will develop into upperclass lions. The fraternity of tomorrow, however, must relate more effectively to upperclassmen so that leadership roles will be played by lions rather than stags.

How can the fraternity of tomorrow become more attractive to the mature upperclassmen? Let me suggest four significant steps that will help to achieve this goal. First, the fraternity or sorority of the future will rearrange priorities of extracurricular activities. Working on homecoming decorations, skipping off to serenades, and rehearsing skits may be fine for freshmen and sophomores, but due priority and recognition must be given to the work with professional organizations which upperclass students seek. In the fraternity or sorority of the future, organizations like the Mathematics Club, Le Cercle Francais, Student Physical Therapy Association, Society for Advancement of Management, and other similar groups will be more acceptable outlets for the extracurricular time of serious students.

... "must relate more effectively to upper classmen"

As a second step, the Greek chapter of the future will provide havens for uninterrupted study. Conscientious scholars will not only be uninhibited in their personal study efforts, but will also be challenged to tutor those underclassmen who experience scholastic difficulties. Appropriate recognition will be given to the men or women who serve their chapters as proctors.

Third, the Greek house of the future will employ upperclassmen as consultants to work with younger officers in every aspect of fraternity administration. Seniors will find rewarding experiences in consulting on finance, on social functions, on alumni relations, on rushing, and on special projects.

Finally, the fraternity of the future will instill in its upperclassmen the burning desire to repay those who have helped them by assisting those who come after. We all recall the poem of the old man who leaped the chasm and returned to build a bridge for youth who was following him, for, as he related, "This chasm which was naught for me to this fair youth may a pitfall be." It is this spirit which the fraternity of the future must regenerate in her upperclassmen.

But other steps must be taken, for, in the fraternity of the future, leadership by older, more mature members will not be enough. There must also be the even more mature guidance of alumni. Those of us who work daily with young people know of the inherent difficulties of relating to them. All of the textbooks on entomology do not help us in understanding the Beatles. In the war with Hitler (and was not that only yesterday?), if something was tough, it was bad. Now, if something is tough, it is good. Even the youthful art forms seem to be gigantic paste-ups from the comic strips.

The Communication Void

In his book, THE THIRTEENTH APOSTLE, Eugene Vale has Professor Velliczek exclaim, "How much heartache would be avoided if we would only eliminate that damnable static of the inner ear which prevents understanding between different stages of maturity, between old and young, parent and child, tutor and student—a static which scrambles the meaning of perfectly intelligible words until such time as we are ripe to comprehend what is said to us. Too bad, too, too damnably bad, that there should be so little communication between us, that we pass each other on different planes as it were, in full sight of one another, and yet unable to grasp what the other shouts."

Yet, we must communicate with our young people. Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, that eminent psychiatrist who directs Harvard's University Health Service, insists that, "Effective communication between our young people and those men and women of real worth in our communities should replace the idealization by our teenagers of trivial or disreputable characters. This cannot be done unless we develop better channels of communication between generations than we have now."

While our fraternities urgently need more counseling and guidance from responsible alumni, I have been informed that many of our sororities are probably suffocating from over-supervision by their alumnae. It is, of course, difficult to walk the tenuous tight rope between under-supervision and domination. This is the same problem faced through the centuries by the parents and teachers of those on the threshold of adulthood. How to counsel without dominating. How to guide without dictating. How to allow the widest spectrum of free choice while setting those limits which only experience teaches. How to enjoy working with those in the fullness of youth without expecting to relive this pleasant period through them. How to forgive and forget when affection is thrown back by the turbulent tide of independence. The difficulty of this problem is well illustrated by the satirical remark of George Ross Wells that, "Man is probably the only animal which even attempts to have anything to do with his half-grown young." Yet, the problem of arriving at the correct mixture of alumni guidance and student independence must be solved by the Greeks of tomorrow.

Perhaps the solution to this problem lies in the offices of the third member of the triad partnership—the University. We may all take considerable pride in the highly professional work of our offices of the Dean of Men and Dean of Women—particularly of the excellent relationships established by Assistant Dean Jane McCormick with the sororities and Assistant Dean A. Chester Burns with the fraternities. Working closely with active chapters and alumni groups, these two fine, young professionals have been important factors in the continuing national recognition of our fraternity and sorority systems.

Our offices are designed to serve you and your active chapters. We are always available as an impartial mediator and a vital channel of communications. We hold an abiding belief in the worth of fraternities and sororities and back this belief with the annual expenditure of tens of thousands of dollars solely to assist fraternity and sorority programs. The fraternity of the future will have established an even more meaningful relationship with the University of which it is a part.

The Opportunity is There

Shakespeare has said, "There is a tide in the affairs of man, which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Omitted, all of the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries." You and I have the high privilege of working with young people at this critical tide of their lives.

Fraternities and sororities have the ability of channeling this surging tide over the spillways which activate the powerhouses of the intellect or draining it off into the ditches of waste. It is my profound belief that the fraternity of tomorrow will continue to turn the tide of youthful enthusiasm into channels of excellence.

Yes, there will be a fraternity tomorrow, and it will continue to be an inseparable organ of the academic body. In the pulsating vitality of the future, fraternity men and their alumni, and sorority women and their alumnae, will, with the assistance of the student-oriented faculty, continue the forward surge to the very perimeters of knowledge.

COLONIZATION at the

ON February 2, 1965 the entire brotherhood of Gamma Sigma Phi, a local fraternity at the University of Rochester, was pledged to the Chi Phi Council by National Director, Carl J. Gladfelter. This ceremony, held in a downtown Rochester banquet room, was the culmination of more than a year's contact with Chi Phi and marked the official recognition of Rochester's Chi Phi Colony. The colonization was achieved with permission of the University Administration and the I.F.C., obtained through the efforts of Brother Gladfelter, the colony officers and Brother Alan Schoenegge, the colony's new advisor.

The Genesean Brotherhood of Gamma Sigma Phi was a relatively young group on the Rochester campus, its earliest roots as a social club dating only as far back as November of 1961. However the enthusiasm and vitality of the group, originally known as the Geneseans in honor of the Genesee River which flows beside the campus, is evident in the rapidity of their development. As early as April of 1962 the founding fathers began contacting University officials, negotiating with I.F.C. and drawing up a constitution. In the fall of 1962 the group rushed as a provisional fraternity and on December 2, 1962, gained official recognition as a full-fledged fraternity.

Housing in the Future

The new Rochester Colony, as with six of the fourteen fraternities on campus, is a non-house. This situation on the River Campus is largely the product of an acute land shortage for University expansion and a resulting Administration Moratorium on fraternity building. However the brothers of non-houses can live together in fraternity corridors, eat together at reserved tables in the Dining Center and the Administration has promised to lift its Moratorium very soon, due to recent land acquisitions.

The University of Rochester, founded in 1850, is a privately endowed, nonsectarian university for men and women. Its president is W. Allen Wallis, '32, a Chi Phi alumnus who served as Alpha of Minnesota's Gamma Delta Chapter during his undergraduate days. Today's University, comprising seven schools and colleges offering programs from the undergraduate through post-doctoral level, is a far cry from the school which originally admitted students under the agreement that "the price of tuition for regular course students shall be $30 per annum." Its programs are now staffed by a faculty of 1,373 and its total enrollment, including graduate students, is over 5,500.

When the University first opened its doors in November of 1850, it was operating under a provisional charter of the State of New York. Its seven professors and seventy-one students lived at the United States Hotel in town. Although founded by the Baptist Church, the University was, from its beginnings, open to all denominations of students "who wish to realize the benefit of a good education."

Moved to Permanent Campus

In 1861 the provisional charter from the state was made permanent and the University moved to the Prince Street Campus, donated by Azariah Boody.

Little happened between this movement and the election of Rush Rhees as the new president in 1900, but his inauguration marked the beginning of a new era for the University of Rochester. Until then the University had been a liberal arts college for men only. At this time a movement among representative women in Rochester, led by Miss Susan B. Anthony, resulted in the addition of women students.

In quick succession came the addition of the Eastman School of Music in 1921 and several years later a revision of the college curriculum which resulted in the addition of the Honor's Division. The School of Medicine and Dentistry was opened in 1925.

Early in the 1920's, a "Greater University Fund" movement was started for the establishment of a new campus for the Men's College. It was recommended to the Trustees that the new campus be located on the property of the Oak Hill Country Club near the Genesee River. Toward the purchase and construction of the new Campus, $7½ million was collected during a ten-day drive in Rochester. A major contributor was Mr. G. Eastman, the University's great benefactor who donated a total of $23,800,000 between 1903 and 1924. At his death in 1932 the University was bequeathed the immense sum of $19,000,000, making it the fourth most wealthy among all privately endowed universities at that time.

College of Arts and Sciences Formed

The Men's College grew by leaps and bounds after its transfer to Oak Hill in 1930. Two decades later the Board of Trustees authorized the merger of the College for Men and the College for Women as a single College of Arts and Sciences. This was followed by a major River Campus building program. The merger of the college took place with the opening of the 1955-1956 school year.

The University's seven academic units are located on three campuses. Five of these units are on the 87-acre River Campus, overlooking the Genesee River. They are the College of Arts and Science, offering degree programs in 30 fields; the College of Engineering and Applied Science; the College of Education; the College of Business Administration; and the University School of Liberal and Applied Sciences.

The University Medical Center, adjoining the River Campus, houses the School of Medicine and Dentistry, including the Department of Nursing; and Strong Memorial Hospital. The Eastman School of Music, in downtown Rochester, has its own academic buildings and a residential campus which it shares with the University's Memorial Art Gallery.

FACILITIES: The University's physical plant consists of some 80 buildings located on 400 acres of land. The total plant is valued at $55,000,000 (at cost).

The River Campus is a completely self-contained unit. In addition to academic buildings, it has a student activities building, dormitories, auditorium, dining halls, gymnasiums and swimming pools for men and women, stadium, playing fields, and a fraternity quadrangle.

An 800,000-volume library system includes Rush Rhee Library on the River Campus; the Medical School Library; the Memorial Art Gallery Library; and the Eastman School's Sibley Music Library, which houses one of the country's most complete music collections.

Space Age Areas of Study

Special facilities include a 240-million electron volt synchrocyclotron, and an 8-million electron volt cyclotron, both of which are used in the University's programs in particle physics and cosmic rays; and the specialized laboratories of the Institute of Optics, the only privately supported academic unit of its kind in the world.

The University Medical Center, a multiple-wing structure providing about 1,200,000 square feet of floor area, was one of the first medical units in the country in which both the medical school and its hospital were housed in a single building. Recent construction projects include the Radiation Center and an addition to the Medical Library.

The Eastman School's academic buildings contain special facilities for instruction, research, practice and perform-

Alan A. Schoenegge , Xi '61, is the Advisor to Rochester Colony

BROTHER SCHOENEGGE graduated from Cornell with a Bachelor of Architecture degree in 1961 and was immediately commissioned an Ensign in the United States Navy. He was on active duty from June 1961 to June 1963 on the Aircraft Carrier USS Essex. Upon his discharge from the Navy he associated with the architectural firm of Waasdrop, Northrup and Kaelber, AIA, Rochester, New York.

During the summer of 1964 he went to England on an exchange program between the University of Rochester and the University of Hull. He traveled through England and Scotland studying architecture from the Roman Period through the Medieval and Modern. His hobbies fit in nicely with his chosen career, since they are color photography, pen and ink sketching, oil painting and music. He also possesses an avid interest in sports.

Brother Schoenegge was born in Rochester and is very familiar with the University of Rochester scene and thus is in an excellent position to be an Advisor to the Colony. At the request of the Council, he conducted an early investigation of Gamma Sigma Phi and it was his recommendation that led to further investigation by the National Director and Council. As a result, he is on a first name basis with most members of the Colony. It is now Brother Schoenegge's role to train the Colony in the traditions and lore of the Fraternity, a task which he has accepted with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Alan is a bachelor and resides at 56 Aberthaw Road, Rochester, New York.

ance. The 3,300-seat Eastman Theater and the 500-seat Kilbourn Hall auditorium, both integral parts of the School, are used for performances by Eastman School groups and visiting artists.

RESEARCH: The University of Rochester has long been a center for programs of research and research training. Sponsored research for private and governmental agencies totaled about $14,000,000 in 1964 and is steadily rising. Rochester is one of nine universities which operates the Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island, under a federal contract for nuclear research.

ENROLLMENT: There are 2,675 undergraduates on the River Campus, 425 undergraduates at the Eastman School of Music, and 290 candidates for the M.D. degree at the School of Medicine and Dentistry. Graduates enrollment on the three campuses totals 2,400. The students come from all over the United States and many foreign countries. Their caliber is high, 90% of last year's freshmen being in the top fifth of their classes. On the River Campus the Fraternity system absorbs about 50% of each year's male freshman class.

During the last decade, and especially since the installation of W. A. Wallis as its 6th president, the University of Rochester has undergone rapid development and enlargement. In President Wallis' own words:

"We have set one principal objective and a second as a function of the first. This university should become, as we are all confident it can become, one of the top in the United States.—secondly—We want the university to be as small as is consistent with this quality."

In line with this goal of "consistent smallness" President Wallis stated that the growth rate of 6% per annum of recent years will be cut down to 3% and that enrollment will finally level off at approximately 3,600 students on the River Campus.

Faculty Assured for the Future

In order to meet this planned increase in students the university has been "stock-piling" faculty, both anticipating a shortage of teachers in the future and in hopes that a superior faculty will attract new financial support. Since 1950 the faculty on the River Campus has doubled. Even more important, the percentage of full-time faculty holding earned doctoral degrees has risen from 60% to about 90%. Faculty salaries have more than doubled. Rochester is one of a dozen universities given top ratings by the American Association of University Professors.

During this period of rapid growth, budgets have grown as well: The research budget has quadrupled (from 3 to 14 million dollars); the annual operating budget has nearly quadrupled (from 13 to 49 million dollars).

Clearly, the University of Rochester is a growing, dynamic institution. The new Chi Phi Colony is striving to grow with the campus, to become an integral part of the university and to make fraternity experience a valuable part of its education.

CAMPUS AND ALUMNI BRIEFS

CALHOUN OAK

Not far from the front entrance of Emory University Hospital stands a great old tree, more than twice the age of the hospital itself. In spite of threats to its survival during the latter part of a century-long history, the Calhoun Oak continues to flourish because it was befriended some 20 years ago.

In the mid-forties, the hospital was to gain several major additions, and architect's plans called for the removal of several large trees from the grounds. The architect, though reckoned without Dr. F. Phinizy Calhoun, Sr. H'00.

Dr. Calhoun, a distinguished practicing ophthalmologist, had recently retired after 30 years as chairman of his department in the School of Medicine. One of Emory's great benefactors since the early twenties and a trustee since the early thirties, he was serving on the Board's executive, health services, and buildings and grounds committees.

And so, as an influential Board member and in keeping with his determination that Emory should be as beautiful as possible, Dr. Calhoun persuaded the hospital authorities to save those trees. He is very proud of this accomplishment—proud of one white oak in particular—and although there are many reasons for pride in his long record of service and beneficence to the University, he admits that he would like to be recognized as the man who saved the Calhoun Oak.

He will have his wish. Last fall, the Board heartily approved dedication of the tree in honor of the octogenarian physician.

That tree was selected as the one most likely to have many healthy years of life ahead. It stands a few yards north of the hospital entrance and is accommodated by a crook in the sidewalk. A scar near the roots is evidence of successful surgery ten years ago. And it wears a brass plaque carrying the legend:

THE CALHOUN OAK

A tribute to Dr. F. Phinizy Calhoun, Sr., whose interest in the trees and plantings on this campus has made Emory University more beautiful.

This form of recognition is modest indeed for one who has done so much for Emory, but its location near the heart of the University's huge medical center is entirely appropriate.

F. Phinizy Calhoun's grandfather, Dr. Andrew B. Calhoun, was one of the incorporators, in 1854, of Atlanta Medical College, a predecessor of Emory's School of Medicine. His father, Dr. Abner Wellborn Calhoun H'19, first eye specialist in the region, held the chair of ophthalmology for 38 years at Atlanta Medical College and its successor, Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, which was to become the Emory medical school in 1915. When his father died in 1910, the son, already a member of the faculty, followed him as chairman of ophthalmology.

Today, and since 1949, that post has been held by Dr. F. Phinizy Calhoun, Jr., H'32. Father and son shared offices in downtown Atlanta until the senior doctor retired from practice recently.

There can be no doubt of Dr. Calhoun's pride and pleasure when he saw the plaque that is now on the Calhoun Oak. On and off for several years he has been working on a poem for "the tree in front of Emory University Hospital that I saved"—

*I am an old oaken tree;
Age, memories, known but to me.
I lived and grew despite life's strife;
Thank God and him who saved my life.*

RHO COMPLETES MODERNIZATION AND HOUSE IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

For the past few years, the Rho Chapter Association, in conjunction with the active chapter, has been conducting an alumni drive to obtain funds for general house improvements. At the conclusion of the first semester, 1963-1964, work was initiated on the first floor. Upon our return in February, the foyer had been completely redecorated to include a new beamed ceiling, wooden paneled walls, chandeliers, and a Chi Phi coat of arms. The lounge was redecorated in a green grass mat veneer, a matching wall to wall carpet was laid, complementary draperies were installed, and the room was entirely refurbished to include a sofa, cocktail table, card table, padded lounge chairs, and playing chairs. The ladies' room was also redecorated at this time.

More intensive work was staved off until this summer. At that time the whole exterior was cleaned, the shutters painted black, and the former wooden porch floors were replaced by concrete aprons. The exterior appearance is markedly improved and now presents one of the finest appearances on campus. Work was completed on the living room and in addition to the new furnishings, it too received a new ceiling. The floor was sanded and waxed and the decor was made to complement the foyer. The pool table was turned down and rewaxed, the pool room walls were repainted, and, like the rest of the floors, the pool room floors were sanded and buffed.

The work on the downstairs portion of the house included moving the stairway, relocating the mail box to the lower landing, refinishing the two downstairs bedrooms, the hallway, and of refurbishing the bedrooms. Our Marlboro bar serves during informal weekends and adjoins the recently redecorated pine room, which serves as the center of brotherhood activities from ping-pong to television.

We are very proud of our house and greatly appreciate the help of the alumni in making it one of the finest on campus. We hope, with the continued support of our alumni, to make the Rho Chapter of Chi Phi the leader at Lafayette College.

GOOD NEWS FROM ARIZONA

The Grand Eta, Bates Block, visited the University of Arizona Colony in March. He reports that we have a fine group of pledges, and that they are in every respect worthy of their names. The original plan had been to initiate the first semester pledges making their grade point average at Eta Delta, University of Southern California. However, the Council's petition of a waiver to initiate the men of the Colony was denied by the Arizona IFC. This was necessarily great cause for disappointment, but did not discourage the members for long. The following report from the Colony Zeta, Steve Steele, attests to their determination.

After our first complete semester and now well into our second, we have a membership of eighteen men and one Saint Bernard, Chi Phi Squidde. We are looking forward to having at least thirty pledges by the end of this semester. We carry out rush programs during the week and at Monday night dinners.

According to the University of Arizona standards, all thirty pledges must make above a 3.000 in order to initiate. We feel we are well on our way, as only two of our pledges failed to meet that standard last semester. The Colony placed fifth out of the twenty-eight fraternities last semester with a 2.87 grade point average.

Some of the activities that the Chi Phi Colony was involved in last semester were: 4-2 record in intramural football; participation in other intramural activities; won first place laurels in the pledge pajama contest; sponsored a dinner for the sorority pledge presidents; and several social events including a Christmas Formal as well as numerous rush parties.

Members of the Colony are looking forward to housing for next fall. Mr. John Matthews, Alpha-Chi '39, is the local alumnus working on the housing possibilities.

In November Carl Gladfelter, National Director, spent several days with the group and with alumni groups in both Tucson and Phoenix. The result of these meetings was the formation of the Arizona Chi Phi Alumni Association. The President is John D. Frakes (c/o Elk's Club, Tucson); the secretary is Don Cramer (4219 North 26th Street, Phoenix); the treasurer is Charles Hill (4149 Oxford Drive, Tucson). The Council representative is John Matthews, chapter alumni advisor—Ted Kramer, chapter financial advisor—Charles Hill.

The Colony officers were elected in December: Alpha—Peter Matthews; Beta—Dan Bach; Gamma—Bill Lane; Delta—Bob Bonfiglio; Epsilon—Joe Thomas; Zeta—Steve Steele.

Our present mailing address is 829 N. 3rd Avenue; Phone No. 792-0709.

ALPHA DELTA INITIATES A LECTURE PROGRAM SPEAKERS FROM CHAPTER ARE FEATURED

At the suggestion of Richard Spohn '65, Alpha Delta recently inaugurated a lecture program drawing on the talents of the various Brothers.

The basic intention being to promote an understanding of all curricula within the house. The lectures may pertain to any aspect or phase of the curriculum or to any subject which may be related to that curriculum. The lectures are given at 1:30 p.m. on any Sunday chosen by the lecturers.

To date, two lectures have been given. The first lecture was given by John Gordon Junker. The subject on which he lectured was insurance; and his title, "The History of Insurance." Gordon explained why insurance was necessary and went on to present a very interesting talk on the development of the insurance company. He also explained a few policies and cited the differences between them.

John G. Junker, AD '63 explaining "Insurance" to the Brotherhood

The second lecture was delivered by John Carney. His subject was Art Appreciation. Several slides were shown and various aspects of the Arts were presented.

The attendance which is voluntary at the lectures has been about twenty members per lecture with a few guests thrown in for good measure. Two lectures have been scheduled for the near future; one of which will be delivered by Joseph MacDowell, a chemical engineering major, the other will be given by Sidney Wheeler and Robert Watkins on "The Principles of Flight."

Several benefits of this program have already been recognized. The information given to us by our brothers has been of interest in many varied conversational situations. We have secured an understanding of popular subjects concerning others in addition to those concerning just the members of our fraternity house. The speaker is also given the opportunity to improve his effectiveness as an orator by demonstrating and practicing his skills not only in a talk to inform but also in a speech to persuade or to stimulate. If we have received nothing else, we have received pleasure out of being entertained by our very own Brotherhood.

EDUCATIONAL TRUST RECEIVES UNUSUAL GIFT FROM OLDEST CHI MEMBER

Ernest P. Seelman, Chi '98, the oldest living member of Chi Chapter presented the Educational Trust with a set of his "The Law of Libel and Slander in the State of New York," "Revised Edition, 1964," with the suggestion that the Trustees sell the reference to a law firm retaining the proceeds as an asset.

The book is reviewed on page 10 of the Chakett and it is hoped by Brother Seelman that some Chi Phi lawyer, "especially if specializing in libel cases" will desire to purchase the set. The reference sells for Sixty dollars. Address inquiries to John E. Oliver, Chi Phi Educational Trust, Room 550, 3330 Peachtree Rd., N.E., Atlanta, Georgia, 30326.

Brother Seelman writes that he is still far from retired and is at his office, 50 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., five days a week. He says, "I don't wish to convert you into a law book salesman, but the money could go, in whatever sum paid, to the Educational Trust."

YOUNG INVENTOR MARKETS PLASTIC DIGITAL COMPUTER

Brother Charles David Hogan Mu '64, who originally hails from Tulsa, Okla., pledged Chi Phi at Mu Chapter at Stevens Institute of Technology in the spring of 1960. He became a Brother during the ensuing fall and has served Mu since, in the capacities of Epsilon, Delta, and Alpha. Dave received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1964 and is presently living in Verona, N. J., with his wife Sheila. Before graduation Dave was already the holder of several patents: two covering mechanical, serial, and random access memories, and logic mechanisms of computers, and one covering a new Capstan-Pressure Roller System for Audio Tape Recorders.

At the end of his freshman year, Brother Hogan and several partners set up business to build a device which would teach people how digital computers work. Before proceeding with the actual project, they did research into the history of computers and found that although several attempts had been made to build a Mechanical Digital Computer, none had been successful. After working for two summers and part time while still in school, Dave had come up with a mechanical computer in what he and his partners believed to be its simplest form.

The device is called the Digi-Comp I and it is an actual operating, plastic, digital computer. It sells for both a training aid and a toy, and it has been advertised in such magazines as Scientific American. Digi-Comp is actually a simplified mechanical equivalent of large electronic computers and it enables one to see the mechanical equivalent of the operations that actually go on inside giant electronic brains.

Brother Hogan is presently working for E.S.R. Inc. and he indicated several new toys that may be coming out in the near future. These include a Polarized Light Source (educational kit using polarized light) and a Digi-Comp Pro Football Game which incorporates the workings of six Digi-Comps. This latter game will compute the probability of yardage gained in a play and will also include a mechanism to automatically move the football that amount.

Brother Hogan's endeavors in the field of engineering certainly deserve the attention of the Brotherhood and his accomplishments have not only made him a credit to himself, but to Chi Phi as well.

Book Review

THE LAW OF LIBEL AND SLANDER IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK

Publisher: Central Book Company, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Author: Ernest P. Seelman, Chi '98

This recognized authority upon the subject was published in 1933, and went out of print in 1961. The Revised Edition was released October 5, 1964.

Brother Seelman began the revision in December 1962 and turned the long hand manuscript over to the printer in January, 1964.

The work consists of two volumes; Libel and Slander, both containing separate indexes, table of contents and table of cases. The author copied every available opinion found in the reports of the State. Libel and Slander were separately copied. The opinions of the Court of Appeals and of the lower courts in each subject were also separated. Then a digest of these determinations was made with the same separation. Next—the principles of law were set down with the sustaining authorities. The book with its citations, quotations, and criticisms was evolved.

Hogan's Digi-Comp I—A real operating Digital Computer. Sells for both a training aid and a toy.

Do Yourself a Favor

Robert E. Martin, Gamma '33, recently said "As an American and as a business or professional man, you can do yourself and your country a great favor if you can help keep the fraternity system alive. Fraternities are a great channel of communication, and can be a force of good social patterns in our American way of life; but they will perish unless they are supported morally, intellectually and financially, by members such as yourself."

If you have not already done so attach a check for $5.00 or more to the form provided below and mail to the Council office.

At this writing the response to the 1965 dues request has been about the same as the similar period in 1964. The Council needs more financial assistance this year, however, as a direct result of the aggressive expansion program—new chapter development costs money and in a large measure new growth must be very largely financed with alumni funds.

High Percentage of Fraternity Men in U.S. Congress

Sixty-eight percent of the senators and approximately thirty-five percent of the representatives in the 89th Congress are members of college social fraternities and sororities, according to a study released February 1st by the Stewart Howe Services, Inc.

Twenty-three of the 32 Republicans in the Senate, and 66 of the 140 representatives are members of fraternities. On the Democratic side, 45 of the 68 senators and 80 of the 295 representatives have fraternity affiliations.

Chi Phi boasts no senators, but proudly hails four Republican representatives: Charles Jonas, Alpha-Alpha '25, North Carolina; William E. Minshall, Jr., Alpha '36, Ohio; John P. Saylor, Zeta '29, Pennsylvania; Vernon W. Thomson, Kappa '27, Wisconsin.

Half of the governors now have fraternity backgrounds. The 1964 elections brought 6 new fraternity men into state governorships and saw the re-election of 3 others. Approximately half of the governors of the United States now have college fraternity backgrounds. Only two fraternities have more than one governor. Chi Phi's governor is Carl Sanders, Eta '45, of Georgia.

Where Do The Chi Phis Live?

A GLANCE at the accompanying table indicates more living in Georgia than any other state. However, the Metropolitan area surrounding New York City is actually called home by more Chi Phis than any other section of the country.

Brothers from Gamma, Eta and Omega constitute the big block in Georgia, 850 of whom reside in Atlanta. On the other hand, men from every chapter reside in the New Jersey, Connecticut, New York metropolitan area. Omicron (Yale), Mu (Stevens), Xi (Cornell), Phi (Amherst) and Chi (Dartmouth) brothers head the list in the metropolitan area.

It is interesting to note that only five Chi Phis reside in North Dakota, whereas Alaska boasts fourteen and Hawaii thirty-six, both of the latter states being admitted to statehood far more recently than the state containing the fewest brothers.

Chi Phi is frequently referred to as a southern fraternity, but an examination of the table would indicate otherwise. A very heavy concentration of Chi Phis reside in the Mid-Atlantic area. Three of the five states sheltering more than 1,000 Chi Phis are in the Mid-Atlantic area; New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. One of the fastest growing states, California, has over 1,500 alumni to point up the fact that Chi Phi is anything but a regional fraternity.

Let's Talk It Over (Continued)

Most will acknowledge the lead and after the rush is over inform the brother furnishing the recommendation of the outcome. The policies and philosophy of chapters do not vary—chapter leadership in any given year may, on the other hand, be weak or strong or some shade in between.

It would appear then that Brother Walker is at once right and wrong. And we hope that each chapter will constantly remind itself of its obligation to "listen" to alumni, and that each alumnus will remember that on occasion certain candidates are not, at the moment at least, acceptable to the chapter.
