

Kappa Alum New U-Line President

Philip Uihlein, Kappa '72, became the president of U-Line Corp. of Milwaukee, when founder Henry Uihlein stepped aside and became chairman of the board in November 1977.

Uihlein is a great-grandson of Henry Uihlein who led the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company for 42 years. But it was his grandfather, Herman Uihlein Sr., who broke away from the brewery crowd and in 1935 developed a home freezer in conjunction with Sears, Roebuck & Company.

After World War II Uihlein's operation was the third largest freezer producer in the world, but was eventually liquidated as appliance industry giants took over the markets. The reservoir of refrigeration engineering which remained was drawn upon in the formation of U-Line Corporation about fifteen years ago.

Joining Philip in the operation of the business is his brother Richard, corporate secretary.

"We set the styling and the pricing and the big boys followed," Henry told the Milwaukee Sentinel, describing the early "missionary" years in the manufacture of small icemakers.

The U-Line unit remains the only one in the industry that does not require drain, and is energy-efficient with use of less current than a 40-watt bulb.

Three years ago the company added a compact refrigerator to its line, importing the unit from Great Britain where it is manufactured by Thorne Domestic Appliances. His company is the only importer of compact refrigerators, a fact made feasible by the existence of the Port of Milwaukee.

Philip has been with the firm since his 1970 graduation from the University of Wisconsin, moving up to the presidency after serving as vice president for sales.

In a world that frequently seems dominated by large publicly held corporations, Philip Uihlein points out that a strong family owned venture generates respect among customers.

"Family ownership is our best selling tool," he told Writer Roger Stafford. "And nobody manages your own money like you do."

Chi at Dartmouth Studies Return

Chi Chapter at Dartmouth University, Hanover, N. H., which withdrew from the National Fraternity several years ago has been visited twice this year by National Director Ray Donohue, and by his assistants, Harley Schoenfeldt and Ed Spangler.

"There is interest in the chapter and among their alumni to return to activity in Chi Phi," reports the Grand Alpha. "Interested Chi alumni are invited to let both the Chapter and the National know their position."

Other National fraternities still exist at Dartmouth, although approximately half have gone local as Chi did.

Another Helms Is N. C. Leader

Park Helms AA 59 missed his daughter's graduation to push a local-option mixed drink bill through the North Carolina House of Representatives.

If Helms, who is not related to the Senator, had missed the vote, the bill almost certainly would have been killed, as it was kept alive by a single vote before passing by a margin of seven on final reading.

Reported the Charlotte Observer:

"Some people might see that as an unusual situation for a Baptist deacon and a devoted family man. Helms received a telegram from an Eastern North Carolina Baptist during the liquor debate saying he would never qualify as a deacon in that part of the state."

A native of Charlotte where he practices law, Helms usually doesn't let legislative matters take precedence in important family decisions.

"But my daughter asked me to stay and fight for this bill because she felt it was the right thing to do."

THE CHI PHI CHAKETT

APRIL 1978

Only the pillars remained after fire destroyed the Gamma House during Christmas holidays a year ago. Rebuilding is beginning.

Emory Pillars To Stand!

Gamma Alumni and actives went to work immediately when their House, the best located on Emory's Fraternity Row, was burned almost completely during the Christmas Holidays last winter.

Today, two Committees are hard at work on the final phases of getting Gamma into an expanded house by the start of the 1979-80 school year.

The Building and Construction committee is headed by Bates Block, with Don Mize as vice chairman. Construction is to begin in September 1978, with eight months for completion, and a total cost of perhaps $1.2 million.

The landmark columns which graced the old house remain largely intact and will again be the feature of the new house which will have 18,000 square feet of floor space (with capacity increased from 33 to 41) compared to 15,000 for the old house. In addition, there will be a full basement instead of the partial one before.

The Fund Raising committee is headed by J. Kenneth Morgan as chairman and Robert Ackerman as vice chairman. Despite a large insurance settlement, substantial sums will remain to be met after payment is received.

Quick alumni action enabled the chapter to have alternative housing at the Carr House on Houston Mill Road, owned by the Emory University Woman's Club, which accommodated 21 of the Emory residents, and the Sheraton Hotel near Emory was used for emergency housing for the first few days after school opened.

Alumni who worked on this project were Mike Aycok, George Duncan, Block and Morgan.

A committee on contents composed of Jay Bass and Ackerman worked together to determine furniture valuation with the insurance company.

Guinness Record Set by AD Actives in Monopoly

The world's record of 511 hours for underwater Monopoly was set recently by four brothers of Alpha Delta at Penn State.

Mark Landiak, Curt Cranmer, John Barges and Donald Doris—all members of the Penn State Nittany Divers Scuba Club—rotated in two-hour shifts, with two under water at all times. Board, cards and money were plastic covered.

Trustees Receiving Swanson Funds; Council Studies Hazing, Finance

Further income from an estate of approximately $160,000 was reported to the Trustees of the Chi Phi Educational Trust, meeting in Berkeley in February, and the Trustees agreed to assist in the cost of the fund-raising campaign planned by Grand Alpha Darryl McCall, ThD 50, G 52, PsiD 70.

Bates Block, G 40, H 42, Grand Eta and ex-officio Trustee, reported sale of additional land from the Estate of Herman Swanson, A-T 14, for $160,000 in cash and a five-year mortgage. Two other parcels in the Fredericksburg, Va., area are still for sale, which will give the Trust additional funds in the next few years.

In other business, the Trustees:

1) Discussed the forthcoming fund-raising by Eta Delta alumni, to replace funds advanced by the Trust.

The three-day meeting of Chi Phi's Grand Council in March concentrated on Hazing, Finances, Co-Ed Fraternities and Expansion, in the atmosphere of Penn State's Alpha Delta Chapter house. Indiana University's Iota Delta Chapter had been put on probation for one quarter after a raw-egg throwing that was interpreted as hazing by the University.

So seriously did the Administration view the incident that for a time it seemed the chapter might be forced off the campus, and Grand Alpha McCall stated his strong belief that Council should ensure minimal hazing activities among all chapters.

Representatives from Phi Chapter at Amherst told Council that more than 2/3 of that chapter had voted to admit

Kappa Wins in Midwest Tourney

By CRAIG ROBERTS

The Kappa Chapter defended its championship title when it hosted the annual mid-west basketball tournament on April 7-10.

The Kappas once again took the honors of the double elimination tournament by beating a strong Alpha Chi team from Ohio-Wesleyan University, 62 to 53.

In the consolation play-off game, the Pi chapter from Northwestern took third place by beating a tired Alpha Tau team from Michigan.

It should be noted, however, that the Alpha Chi team went into the championship round with two of its players injured. Brothers Casey Nash and Kurt Sickafus injured their ankles. Nash was sidelined, but Sickafus continued to play.

Brother Dave Seymour from Alpha Chi won the award for Most Valuable Player, and received a trophy for his efforts.

"Dave was picked because of his overall playing ability and leadership," said Phil Collins, tournament coordinator.

"Much of the tournament's success can be credited to the excellent turnout by eight of the mid-west chapters with about 60 brothers in attendance," Brother Collins said.

The other teams that participated, but did not place were Nebraska (Alpha Theta Chi), Ohio State (Iota), Minnesota (Gamma Delta), and Indiana (Iota Delta).

Harley Schoenfeldt, assistant regional director, said at the awards ceremony that he was impressed by the turnout, and hopes that it will grow and gain support among the chapters.

"This is one of the best ways to meet with the brothers of different chapters, talk to them, and see how the different chapters are run," Schoenfeldt said.

Wisconsin may have won the tournament, but Michigan won the hotly contested, and just as important, beer chugging contest. The dispute arose from minor technicalities in rules and a handicap on Wisconsin's part.

The question of whether Wisconsin or Michigan is the better beer chugging chapter will undoubtedly be taken up again at the next meeting of the two chapters.

Eight Teams Compete in Basketball

As the eight teams eventually arrived Friday evening, a party at Brother Dan Soderholm's house, and a spontaneous get together in the Kappa bar room provided the night's entertainment.

By 3 a.m., many of the brothers were still running around the house drinking beers, while others tried to get a few hours sleep before the tournament began at 8 a.m.

The most convenient spot to sleep was the Kappa's stately living room which was carpeted wall-to-wall with Chi Phis in sleeping bags. It may have been crowded, but at least no one was cold. That would come later.

Upon returning from the tournament, many of the visiting brothers learned the true meaning of the energy crisis when the supply of hot water ran out, and most were forced to take a cold shower.

While it is nice to know that no one had to stand in line very long to take a shower, the Kappa brothers hope that no family plans were ruined by our boiler system.

That evening, the Alpha Phi and Delta Delta sororities were on hand to boggie down and hopefully warm up the situation. It wasn't long before the basement was packed, and everyone was either nursing their tired and aching muscles with beer, or expending their remaining strength on the dance floor.

The party was still going by 4 a.m., and there are reports that some were still up at 5:30 a.m. Nobody is quite sure the names of these martyrs (some don't even remember going to bed), but they deserve the Kappa's highest award of distinction.

For those who were able to wake up, stomach the thought of food, or for that matter, see straight, pancakes and orange juice was served for brunch at 8 a.m. on Sunday. By noon all were gone.

The Kappa brothers considered it a fine weekend, and want to thank all of the attending chapters for their participation. We look forward to winning the tournament again next year.

TRUSTEES

2) Granted the Florida Chi Phi Association $5400 for the library and study area portion of the Beta Zeta Chapter House at Florida Technological University, Orlando.

3) Heard a first-hand report of the destruction of the Gamma Chapter House at Emory University, by fire, with excellent insurance coverage but a need for alumni fund-raising as well.

4) Reaffirmed the grant of $12,700 to Nu Delta Chapter at Florida State University, Tallahassee, pending receipt of an appraisal, for the study portion of its house.

5) Heard from Sigma Delta Chapter at University of California Davis of its need to expand its chapter house, with help from the Trust as yet unspecified.

Grand Alpha McCall outlined the plan to raise funds in sufficient amounts to put the fraternity on a sound financial footing. The Trust voted to consider paying a share in the costs of such a fund-raising drive.

The meeting was arranged by Mel Jessup, HD 45, assisted by former Grand Alpha Richard C. Ham, L 33. Trust members present were: William R. Kitchin, A 49; A. R. Updike, Jr., ThD 43; Harold C. Steinke, K 43, with Bates Block, ex-officio as Grand Eta, and Carl Gladfelder, consultant. National Director Ray Donohue and West Coast alumni also attended.

women members, after hours of deliberation, and the chapter would like Council to move to abolish the all-male clause in the fraternity constitution. This matter was also passed along to Congress.

Finances, however, were the most urgent consideration, with the Grand Alpha reporting that "the Fraternity has not made substantial financial progress" since the 1977 Congress, and that "we are operating on a crisis-to-crisis situation."

It was the consensus that Chi Phi consider increasing its pledge and initiation fees to bring them into line with the national average of all fraternities, with National Director Ray Donohue, Ome 61, analyzing 4-year costs of all fraternities. A cost of living increase on a regular basis was also recommended to Congress.

On other matters, the Council:

Learned that $235,000 had been received to date by the Educational Trust from the Swanson Estate (this money not being available for fraternity operation, of course).

Was told that Steve Schweiderwind, ATHX 73, is updating the fraternity's history since 1939 when the "Chronicles of Chi Phi" was published.

Heard Grand Delta Ed Rogan II, K 65, discuss problems in management style, policy implementation and the fraternity's progress, followed by extended discussion by Council members.

Approved new reporting forms on initiations to encourage faster filing of these reports by chapters.

Authorized the Grand Alpha to select the Committee of Three to evaluate the University of North Carolina at Wilmington colony as a preliminary to chartering.

Asked the Grand Eta to prepare for Congress an amendment that chapters be billed for the coming year's Congress fee during the first part of each school year.

Actives and alumni of Alpha Delta chapter entertained with a cocktail hour and dinner. In his welcome, chapter Alpha David Lohr, reported that the chapter ranks in the top five fraternities of 51 on campus, with superior academics, athletic and social activity.

50-Year Chi Phis Respond to Pins

Nine alumni who received 50-year pins automatically from the national office responded, reports Ray Donohue, National Director.

"It is greatly appreciated," wrote Woolsey Finnell Jr. T 28. "This was a pleasant surprise," was the answer from Charles R. Andrews Jr., M. D., G 31. "I shall wear it with pride," said Wm. H. Conine K 24. "Thanks for sending the great poem written many years ago by Bro. Kelly, and for the lapel badge which I will wear on special occasions with great pride," wrote Robert E. Martin G 31.

Others responded at greater length: J. Leslie Harper S 31 wrote:

"It is hard to believe that it is 50 years since I was initiated. I have warm memories of my college days, however, and of my years at 303 E. Chalmers.

"Occasionally I have met Chi Phis in the Rochester (N. Y.) area but not often as there is no local organization of brothers in this area. I believe Allen Wallis, who just retired as Chancellor of the University of Rochester is a Chi Phi as well as Wesley Hanson who retired a year or two ago as Vice President Research of Eastman Kodak."

E. L. Barringer K 25 stated: "The pin recalls most pleasant memories but they do not seem so far away now that there is time to contemplate all the pleasant events on Langdon St."

W. T. Hanson, Jr., H 31, wrote: "Through the years I have recalled with a great deal of pleasure the experiences which I encountered as a Chi Phi at the University of Georgia, and I have always been proud of the association."

Charles L. Fletcher I 30 had these comments: "This is a wonderful gesture on the part of my Brothers to remember me in this fashion and I sincerely do appreciate it. The memories it brings back are manifold and pleasant. I have been retired six years now and continue to be in good physical and mental health."

From Joseph H. Little O 30 came this letter: "I am most grateful to you and to Chi Phi. It is regrettable that the Omicron Chapter is no longer active. Thank you, also, for Bro. Kelly's poetry."

100—Thetans Have Fun At Anniversary Party

It was strictly a "fun time" April 29-30 when alumni of Theta Chapter at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., gathered to celebrate its hundredth and also inspect the completely renovated chapter house.

So reports Fred Kieser Th 62 who was chairman for the event which drew nearly 200 alumni and guests.

Grand Alpha J. Darryl McCall, ThD 50, G 52, PsiD 70, who was one of the banquet speakers Saturday night, concurred with these impressions:

"I never saw so many tall alumni in my life. It seems that Theta always pledges the entire basketball team at RPI . . . They had gotten together the same band which played for the house functions a quarter century ago, now gray-headed, but still masters of the 40s-50s music . . ."

Adds Kieser:

The Grand Alpha also saw Theta's version of "tubing"—a night sport reserved for special occasions by Theta actives as a chapter diversion . . . Old TV sets are found in dumps or along the roads waiting to be picked up for trash, and Theta engineers get them in working order. Then they take them to the chapter house roof and drop them off, so you watch the picture as it comes down. As a "special" two were dropped at once for the Grand Alpha, who saw the "tradition" during the dance intermission . . . Needless to say, cleanup is extensive the following day.

The weekend festivities started out with an extensive brunch, with kegs, at the house, and campus tours were arranged so alumni could see the many additions to the RPI campus in recent years.

Cocktail hour was held in late afternoon, followed by the banquet held in the faculty club's Russell Sage Dining Hall.

Pres. George M. Low, who was director of NASA at the time of the first moon shot, was the main banquet speaker, with compliments for Chi Phi and information on past progress and future planning by Rensselaer.

McCall talked briefly on "what it means to be 100".

Other highlights of the weekend:

On Sunday, the alumni beat the actives in basketball, but the actives turned the tables in baseball.

Oldest alumnus present was Herb Guerin Th 29 who now lives in Hinsdale, Ill., and four other old-time alumni from the early 30s also attended. Guerin read the Fraternity Prayer at the banquet.

Fred Kubiack Th 75 who served as a student member of Council, also came back for the 100th.

Alumni saw another RPI sport—"turtling"—where suds on the floor allowed an unwilling active to be twirled. They call it dancing horizontally.

Chapter reported that it had become the first RPI Fraternity to retire the intramural trophy, requiring three consecutive wins.

The alumnus furthest away who came was from Arizona. There was another from Florida.

The Theta House has been completely redone during the past five years, reports Kieser, with some 40% of alumni—200 or more—contributing to raise more than $30,000, with an equal amount borrowed. He was presented with an inscribed clock for his work as reunion chairman.

Hobart Failed, but Wesleyan and Rutgers Helped Expand to RPI

The first attempt to establish a Chi Phi chapter at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute came in 1867 when Brothers Fred Humphreys and William Sutphen, both of Upsilon (Hobart), secured seven pledges for the purpose. However, a delay and misunderstanding with Upsilon caused these men to petition for a charter from another fraternity, which they were granted. Thus, this first attempt failed and it was not until ten years later that another such effort was made.

In November of 1877, William A. Vincent, a Chi Phi at Ohio Wesleyan, suggested the organization of a group of petitioners at RPI in hopes of starting a Chi Phi chapter. He made his suggestion to a good friend, William Barret Ridgely, a student at RPI who had previously made inquiry into the matter. In September of the same year Ridgely pledged John Bausch and George Edward Thackray. Ridgely, Bausch, and Thackray were taken to Delta chapter at Rutgers by Vincent and Sutphen where they were initiated.

Death Slows Recruiting

After returning to Troy, the three new Brothers began their efforts to organize a chapter but in February Brother Bausch's death halted their plans for a short while. The outlook in terms of prospective members was bleak. Four Greek letter societies already had well organized and established fraternities and the RPI faculty was opposed to the formation of another such organization.

Finally, after much hard work, nine names were signed to the petition as follows: Ridgely, Bausch, Thackray, Charles F. Stowell, Rees E. McDuffie, Frank C. Osborn, George W. G. Ferris, Arthur Cobb, and Francisco de Assis Cintra. The petition was granted, charter given, and the petitioners installed as Eta chapter of the Chi Phi Fraternity. When Eta of Georgia was revived, the RPI Chapter became Eta Deuteron until 1880 when the convention gave it the name Theta.

By End of 1878, 12 Members

A small room in a wooden building on Congress St. between First and Second Streets was found and the candidates were initiated with the help of several Brothers from Delta chapter. Before the end of the 1878 school year three more initiates were added bringing the total membership to 12.

In September of 1879 the chapter took up residence at 105 Grand Street, being the first RPI fraternity to occupy their own house even though it was rented.

As membership increased residence was moved to two larger rooms in another part of the city. A fire is reported to have damaged these rooms in 1882 but was extinguished by the city fire department with the help of the Theta Brothers.

Still later Theta has occupied a house at 146 Eighth Street, two located at Washington Park, one at the corner of Second Street. The next house was located at 10 Washington Place and the next at 115 First Street.

In 1903 Theta opened its own kitchen and 1909 the Theta Building Corp. was formed as an alumni association and a source of financial backing for the chapter. In 1912 the Theta Building Corporation built a new chapter house on the corner of Fifteenth Street and Avenue B thus becoming the first fraternity at RPI to own its own house.

No Girls in the House

Entertainment at this time centered around the billiard table and it was the job of the freshman class to keep the cues in proper repair. Skating to music at the Congress Street Rink was also a favorite. The well-documented soirees had not yet come into being and a girl in the house was very much the exception rather than the rule. Parties were stag and usually consisted of a keg from Clausen's Saloon on Congress Street, tapped in the library.

With the arrival of World War I the brothers vacated the house in order to accommodate officers of the Student Army Training Corps. The house when vacated by the Army apparently was not left as it had been found. Chi Phi promptly sued the government and won.

During the Second World War the house was leased to the Navy. Most of the actives lived in the dormitories during this time. Theta retained close ties through this by holding meetings and social activities in a rented room in town.

In 1946 the chapter house underwent considerable renovation and Theta was once again back home. In 1952 the Theta Building Corp. purchased Stroud Hall, a convenient next door annex, raising housing capacity to 38.

Omega Plans for 75th & Housing

Next year, Omega will be 75 years old. In addition, its chapter house is now 50 years old.

These two challenges are being studied by a Forward Planning Committee, set up by the Omega Trust Association, and chaired by James T. Porter Ome 43.

Currently, the thinking is that the 75th be celebrated Oct. 19-20-21, 1979, the weekend of the Tech-Auburn football game, reports Freeman Strickland Ome 60, who is chairman of the Celebration Planning Subcommittee.

The House Study Subcommittee, headed by John W. Cherry Ome 40 has tentatively decided that the current location is the best on campus and should be retained, and that many house features such as the staircase and ceiling should also be retained. Campus planners have been consulted, and state that Tech no longer wants the chapter property for its own expansion.

A third Subcommittee on Finance has been set up by Dean Spratlin Ome 39 to study any financial needs which may develop from the other two subcommittees.

Omega Trust is traditionally managed by younger alumni. In this instance, with both house renovation and the 75th anniversary coming up, the Trust officers decided to ask older alumni to take the lead.

PsiD Hosts First SE Golf Meet With Theta Delta the Winner

The Psi Delta invitational golf tournament drew four teams to its inaugural session, held in early April in Charlotte under auspices of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte chapter. Four teams and 10 alumni took part.

The event is expected to grow as has the Southeastern Basketball tournament in Atlanta, started by the Georgia Chi Phi Association in the early 1960s. Another growing regional event is the Midwestern basketball tournament.

Team and alumni competition took place on Saturday and Sunday, April 1 and 2, with Florida's Theta Delta Chapter scoring a decisive victory. Tennessee's Phi Delta Chapter ended up second, UNCC's team third, and the team from Penn State's Alpha Delta chapter fourth. Alumni winners aren't available.

Alpha Delta vowed to return in 1979, but one participant stated: "Hitting the ball was rough, but driving the carts was great fun."

Socially, the Saturday Night Party was held at the chapter house adjacent to the UNCC campus, where the girls complained that there weren't enough guys. Wait until next year! An informal mixer Friday evening preceded the event.

When the final round was completed Sunday, everyone agreed that this event will become another great regional event for Chi Phi.

G D Celebrates 50th with Banquet

More than 40 alumni joined actives for a Founders' Day Celebration May 10th held at the chapter house in Minneapolis. Burce Hasselberg G D '61 acted as Master of Ceremonies for a nostalgic evening as each alumnus recounted a story of something he remembered during his days in the house.

Two stories of particular interest concerned people who went on to become famous. Several members of the 1926 class recalled the days when Henry Fonda lived in the house. This was just prior to the local becoming associated with our fraternity as the Gamma Delta Chapter.

The other story of particular interest was that a couple of Chi Phis helped recruit Bronco Nagurski from northern Minnesota, bring him to the coaching staff for their inspection. The results of his football career became history. Unfortunately, Nagurski was not sufficiently recruited to become a Chi Phi.

The evening was a thoroughly enjoyable event for all in attendance and particularly served to increase spirit among the actives.

Beta Banquet Draws 30 Alums

An overflow crowd including 30 alumni featured the Beta Chapter Initiation Banquet, with the crowd spilling out of the dining room and into the hall.

The MIT chapter traditionally invites alumni at the time of initiation, with the Beta Foundation holding a business meeting prior to the banquet to allow the greatest possible number of alumni to keep current on the condition of the house and association.

The banquet program is on the light side with everyone participating: a humorous speech usually starts things off, with those attending making their own light comments afterwards.

The chapter house is one of Chi Phi's most beautiful ones, originally built by a Massachusetts governor when he was in the legislature, and well-maintained with the help of Beta's alumni.

Youmans of Gamma is Honored by ODK

John G. Youmans, Ph.D., Gamma '42, director of special programs for the Lowndes County Schools in Valdosta, Ga., was recently tapped for Omicron Delta Kappa on "Honoris Causa" for his leadership in the Georgia community and his contributions to the field of education.

Dr. Youmans has been president of five civic clubs, has published three textbooks, written a section for an encyclopedia, and has authored numerous professional articles and training manuals.

Brother Youmans was awarded Phi Delta Kappa's "Distinguished Service Award" and the Georgia Parks and Recreation 1976 "Lay Award."

Adapted from the article in Town & Gown magazine, State College, Pa., January 1978 Issue.

The aroma of pineapple upside-down cake tingles one's nose and makes the air dense with sweetness. Shiny aluminum pots and pans are haphazardly scattered on the tables and shelves. Spices and herbs adorn the countertops. Soft music filters through the metal grating of the radio.

Boys between the ages of 18 and 22 stream endlessly into the kitchen, grab something to eat, and then not-so-silently disappear. The kitchen itself seems to radiate a warmth—much like the special woman who runs it.

The woman is Mrs. Ana Belle Lucas Watson. She wears a white apron over her short and slightly stocky frame. Her greying hair is pinned back from her face. Her glasses seem to magnify the laugh lines around her eyes. She has a wide, sincere smile.

Cooking 14 Years for Chi Phi

Mrs. Watson has worked for 14 years in the kitchen of Chi Phi fraternity at Penn State. She explained why she first considered taking the job.

"I had boys in college and I wanted to help pay for books and to make sure that they had some spending money."

Mrs. Watson, however, did not think she could handle the job. Mrs. Summers, a neighbor who was then Chi Phi's full time cook, asked her how many she had ever cooked for.

Mrs. Watson said, "My family was with me one day and there were about 17." Mrs. Summers replied, "Well, if you can cook for that many, you can cook for 40."

Mrs. Watson describes herself as a "collector of recipes." Some of the special dishes that she cooks for the brothers include: stuffed chicken breasts, meatloaf, turkey, baked ham, meat sauces, and Boston cream pie. Every Friday is cookie day and every two weeks she makes doughnuts.

The brothers have not always had these special treats. When Mrs. Watson became the full time cook in the fall of 1973, she had the responsibility of feeding the 40 young men and also bringing the house out of debt. Her kitchen experience, a strict adherence to the house's budget, working closely with the caterer (student dining room manager) when planning meals, and searching for bargains brought the house out of debt and she has stayed within the budget ever since.

Good planning and a little maneuvering have even allowed her to have special once-a-month birthday dinners and holiday buffets for the brothers.

Student Caterers Important

One aspect of kitchen maintenance that particularly interests her is the job of caterer. When a brother is elected caterer, he not only works closely with Mrs. Watson in the kitchen, but also has the responsibility of overseeing the budget, planning the meals with Mrs. Watson, working with the social chairman, locking up the kitchen after snack-time, and serving in the kitchen during dinner. William Marsh, Jr. said, "Mrs. Watson is picky about who she wants to be caterer. She doesn't want to work with just anybody."

"If someone is running for caterer that she doesn't want to work with, she'll come right out and tell you that she's not going to work with them." During elections recently, none of the brothers wanted to run for caterer.

Later, one of the brothers insinuated that he might like to be caterer. When the brothers told Mrs. Watson who was running for caterer, she said, "No, no, no! I will not work with him. I don't think that he would be responsible." Some of the brothers asked her who she thought would be a conscientious caterer. She suggested another brother and used her influence to get him elected.

Mrs. Watson tries to "cater" to the brothers' tastes, but once in a while she makes something that they don't like. Whenever this happens, she encourages them to tell her.

"Mrs. W"—Cook For Alpha Deltans

Marjorie Seng, author of this article on Alpha Delta's Mrs. Watson, knows whereof she writes. She was an AD Little Sister for two years. An English Major, she graduated in February 1978 with a public relations emphasis. She wants a writing career, specifically to be a staffer on a magazine and learn copy, proofreading, layout and production as well as writing. Marjorie's a product of Virginia Beach, but now lives in Sterling, Va. Two feature stories are currently under consideration by magazines: Fox Hunt Assignment, sent to Spur Magazine, and Female Jockey, also submitted to an appropriate publication.

"I don't mind them telling me. I'd much rather they tell me about it than go in the dining room or in the TV room and moan."

Mrs. Watson chuckled about an incident that happened at the end of this past fall term. "I made a meal called 'mystery meat.' It had pork and beef in it." When she served the brothers the dish, they complained, saying things like, "You gotta be kidding!", "What is this stuff?", and "This is the worst stuff I ever tasted!" Mrs. Watson told them, "Eat it or leave it. I had a family at home and I couldn't ever please them all."

A Business Run Like a Home

Mrs. Watson, however, sees her job as more than just a cook. "It's a business, but you run it like a home," she said. From the beginning she demanded, at one of the brothers' suggestion, that the boys call her "Mrs. Watson" for respect. Lately they've been calling her "Mrs. W."

Even though they have given her a nickname and kid around with her, she still demands respect. When one of the brothers came down to breakfast in his thermal underwear, she yelled,

"Go back up there and put some clothes on!"

"I have clothes on," replied the brother.

"Oh no you don't. Go and put some more on," she said.

Needless to say, the brother trudged upstairs and put pants and a shirt on.

Mrs. Watson has a certain kind of motherly concern for the brothers of the house. She yells at the boys to take their medicine when they're sick. She also likes to keep an eye on the brothers as far as their drinking is concerned, but most of the brothers admit that she is naive as far as what all goes on in the house.

To help prevent the brothers from getting drunk on one of the boys' 21 birthday, she told them, "I won't make you doughnuts if you all get drunk on Lew's birthday." The next day, several of the boys had hangovers from a night at the bars with Lew. Like she promised, she did not make any doughnuts for two weeks.

She Gets 'Em to Class

Mrs. Watson does her utmost to get the boys to go to class, especially on days when the weather is bad. "When I come in in the morning, no matter how the weather is—if it's pouring—I tell them it's a beautiful day to get them to go to class, rather than come in gloomy, because that would just be enough to set them off that they'd go back to bed!"

Brian Benn told of one time Mrs. Watson got him up to go to class, "I lived right above the kitchen. I had an eight o'clock class and I woke up and saw that it was seven o'clock. I turned off the alarm and decided to go back to sleep until seven-thirty. But, Mrs. Watson told one of the brothers, 'Go upstairs and wake up Brian.'"

Alumni are particularly aware of the relationship between Mrs. Watson and the brothers. One alumnus, who came to Homecoming last year, came into the kitchen and said,

"Thanks for the nice meal. Do the brothers call you mom?"

"No," replied Mrs. Watson.

"Well, I'll tell them they should."

"No, they have one mother. If they just feel free and they want to do it, it would be all right with me... but 'Mrs. W.' is special to me," she said.

The brothers try to do little things for her too. The house composite, which includes pictures of all the brothers, has her picture right in the middle. Some of the brothers watch the soap operas on TV for her when she is busy so she can always know what is happening. She even writes alumni.

The brothers who are closest to her eat lunch in the kitchen to keep her company. Every Mother's Day and Christmas the house gives her a present; several of the brothers, however, give her personal Christmas presents.

1973—The Chapter Sweetheart

The house's 1973 Christmas dinner was the turning point in the relationship between Mrs. Watson and the brothers. The brothers gave her a rocking chair and sang her the Chi Phi sweetheart song:

*You all have had dreams of an ideal girl,
A girl Heaven sent to your side.*

The one who is all of these dreams come true is the girl who belongs to Chi Phi.

*Her manner so graceful, her beauty so rare,
The pride of each brother, she's fair, oh, so fair.*

The beauties from kingdoms all o'er the world could never compare with her, my Chi Phi girl!

Mrs. Watson described the scene at the Christmas dinner, "They gave me a rocking chair. We had a tree. It was just special. They were special to me. That night I knew I was accepted by the boys because they sang me their sweetheart song." Her eyes wrinkled up and her face broke into a large smile.

Because of the close relationship between Mrs. Watson and the brothers, Mrs. Watson knows a lot about the goings-on in the house.

William Marsh said that she knew the sequence of events during his hell week that led up to his brotherization.

He reminisced, "I had an eight o'clock class and had gone into the TV room to get some sleep before class. I accidentally fell asleep and Mrs. Watson came in and woke me up saying, 'C'mon Bill, wake up. If you don't wake up you'll get in trouble.'"

Mrs. Watson has made suggestions to the officers to make the pledge program stricter and to re-adopt some of the older rules concerning it. Some of the suggestions she has made include: making the pledges wake the brothers up in the morning for classes; making the kitchen clean by 9 Saturday morning; inspecting the kitchen with a white glove; making the waiters wear white waiter coats during dinners; and lastly, making hell week a full seven days.

Tricks Go Both Ways

Mrs. Watson's involvement in the house has not saved her from being the unknowing victim of pledge pranks.

She recalls one incident when a pledge class put eggs in the furnace, let them rot, and then placed them back in the egg cartons. She complained to the supplier, "Look at these eggs! They're all rotten."

Two years ago a pledge class bolted shut the refrigerator and the milk machine, unplugged the deep freeze, took out the fuses, stole the silverware, and then left the area. The next morning the brothers told her, "The pledge class bolted!"

She and the brothers eventually had to hacksaw the chains so she could prepare the meal. Mrs. Watson chuckled as she recalled the incidents and it is obvious that they do not seem to bother her. She remarked, "It's a part of the house."

Mrs. Watson has been known for her tricks on the brothers. She giggled about the mashed potato escapade, "Before they knew I was using instant potatoes, I'd boil a few potatoes, peel them, and get them ready for mashed potatoes. Then I'd take the potato water and together with the instant potatoes it makes them so there's no instant taste."

One day one of the seniors said to her, "I know you won't lie to me. Are they instant potatoes?"

"No, they aren't," she replied.

"Well, they really tasted like you'd mashed the potatoes!" he exclaimed.

One gets the feeling Mrs. Watson would not trade her job at Chi Phi for any other. Mrs. Watson said her daughter-in-law once asked her, "What are you going to do when your family grows up and goes away?" Mrs. Watson answered, "I'll go out and get another family." And that's just what she did—got a "family of boys." In fact, she says, "This is home here. This is my second home. These 40 boys are my family—my second family."

Surrounded by actives who get chuckles as well as food is Mrs. Watson, who has cooked at Penn State's Alpha Delta House for 15 years.

Lambda, Tau Alumni Are Not Deceased

Mark Twain once cabled the Associated Press from London: "The reports of my death are greatly exaggerated."

The Chakett sincerely apologizes for listing as deceased two alumni who thankfully are very much alive.

Henry Kaspar Evers L 42 is living, but his father Albert John Evers L 11 died on Nov. 13, 1977, a very loyal Chi Phi. Evers is partner with John T. Stephenson L 23 in the investment management firm of Stephenson & Evers in San Francisco.

Bryan Davidson Jones T 66 is also alive and well, reports his mother who added: "These incorrect notices rather shake one up." Bryan went from Alabama to Austin, Texas, where he received his PhD in Political Science, then taught at the University of Houston, and now is teaching at Wayne State University.

He is married to the former Diane Carlson, and they have one 15-month-old daughter.

CHI PHI NEEDS MORE MEMBERS

Alumni referrals are an important source of prospects for Chi Phi Chapters, and more members are needed by most of our chapters.

Alumni knowing a young man entering any of the Chi Phi schools to the right are invited to write the Chapter with copy to the National Director.

Kappa's Jensen, Trustee, Dies

Wallace Murray Jensen, K 29, who served on the Chi Phi Educational Trust 1966-1975, attending all regular meetings, died recently.

Jensen retired from Touch, Ross & Company, Detroit, in 1971, as a partner, but found time for much Chi Phi Service.

He was an alumnus member of the Look Forward Committee in September 1969, serving two years until the committee was discharged, attending all meetings. He was chairman of the committee to nominate the Grand Alpha at the 1972 Congress. He was married to Isabel Bunker, Sept. 26, 1931, in LaGrange, Ill.

Incomes Outpace Tax Cuts, Says Retired Kappa Alumnus

Arthur Uppgren K 21 T 21 has been retired for some years now but he still keeps up with his field of economics.

A recent letter to the Miami Herald pointed out that the tax cuts now proposed would be far less than the increase in total personal income.

"In the 12 months ended March 31, 1978, (personal income increased) by $154 billion. This is more than six times the proposed tax cut.

"The rate of growth for a year based on March's increase would be $235 billion . . . These figures all originate in the Department of Commerce and are published . . . They should be made required reading for the President and all his advisors."

Kappa Grad Studies Sleeplessness

Doctors and laymen frequently blame insomnia on anxiety, depression, or some other form of psychological disturbance, but an institution at Stanford University has found that on the basis of the records of 1500 patients, hidden neurological disorders cause or aggravate chronic sleep trouble in many cases.

Heading the Stanford University Sleep Disorders Center is Merrill M. Mitler, Ph. D., Kappa '67. An article in the December, 1975 Psychology Today came to the National Office from Edward Grogan of Northbrook, IL. "Brother Mitler is a Kappa man in good standing: he still drinks beer!"

The center was founded in 1970 as a referral center to assist doctors in diagnosis and treatment of patients who have severe or prolonged difficulties going to sleep or staying asleep at night, in staying awake during the day, or who have other problems associated with sleeping and waking.

Cases of excessive daytime sleepiness may also experience sudden sensations of muscular weakness, Dr. Mitler says. Others may have respiratory problems during sleep of which they are not aware. "These sleep-related respiratory problems are potentially dangerous and can cause high blood pressure and heart disease."

Insomnia may be related to nighttime respiratory problems, abnormal movement of the legs during sleep, or other physical conditions. It can be caused by job conditions, may be related to emotional depression or anxiety or drug dependency.

Sleep-walking, sleep-talking, enuresis, nightmares are other conditions which concern the center.

The initial consultation ($100 plus room charge) includes a detailed survey of the patient's wakefulness-sleep problem as well as a physical, neurologic, and psychiatric review. Psychological tests and symptom questionnaires are involved, and results of the consultation can indicate other diagnostic tests may be necessary.

At a cost of $325-625 a nocturnal "polysomnogram" conducted in a private hospital room, monitors brain waves, respiration, thoracic and abdominal movement, heart rate and a variety of additional measures as may be required. By monitoring penile tumescence, for instance, the polysomnogram can also be used to differentiate between organic and psychologically based impotency.

A multiple sleep latency test ($300 plus room charge) measures the ability of an individual to fall asleep at five two-hour intervals, and a temperature and activity monitoring for ten days ($125) involves carrying a microprocessor and memory unit around the clock to measure the effect of disruptions in biological rhythms or from jet-lag.

Mitler received his M. A. and Ph. D. from Michigan State University in 1969 and 1970. He went to Stanford in 1970 under a fellowship to study sleep research techniques, was accredited as a clinical polysomnographer in 1977.

With other members of his staff he has been responsible for more than 25 publications or articles and scores of short reports.

"Essentially we operate a clinic for patients who have trouble with their wakefulness-sleep cycle. The service is a 'fee for service' operation and currently we are doing about $200,000 a year in business," Mitler told The Chakett.
