LET'S TALK
 IT OVER . . .

THE MID-YEAR MEETING of the Council was held January 4, 1966 in Atlanta. The highlights were:

EXPANSION: Schools placed on the approved expansion list were the University of Maryland, University of Tennessee and Wesleyan (Connecticut) College.

CHAPTER MANAGEMENT and OFFICER TRAINING: The Council requested the National Director to draft a program designed to provide a school for chapter officers along the lines conducted by other national fraternities and submit the proposal to the September Council meeting.

INITIATION FEES: The Council operating budget was reviewed along with the type of services now being provided to Chapters. It was recommended that the 1966 Congress give serious consideration to an increase in pledge and initiation fees in order to provide more service to the chapters.

LIFE INSURANCE: A program whereby each new candidate for membership would be issued a Life Insurance Contract upon initiation was proposed. The cost would be borne by the insured, with the cash values and dividends accruing to the fraternity. A further study of the proposal was suggested. The matter will be on the September Council meeting agenda.

CHAPTER ADVISOR: The role of the chapter advisor was considered. It was agreed by the Council that ways and means should be found to give the Chapter Advisor more assistance in how to perform his duties in a more effective manner. Among the proposals considered were an instruction manual, an advisor workshop, attendance at Congress, and attendance at the proposed Chapter management and officer training school.

Other items considered were: the Colonies, the budget, The Educational Trust Fund Raising Campaign, alumni awards, the Congress program, the report of the N.I.C. delegate, William C. Pfeiffer, and the chapter scholarship award program.

Not covered but certain to be discussed at future Council meeting and Congress will be the necessity for increasing the voluntary alumni dues from $5 to a higher figure. Pledge and initiation fees have remained at the same figure for a number of years, likewise alumni dues. With operating costs rising and the urgency for providing more and better service the Council must consider ways and means of increasing revenues. The Council as always, would appreciate the benefit of your thinking on the subject.

Set Your Sites on Pittsburgh—September 3, 4 and 5

The Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania will be the site of Congress on September 3, 4 and 5, 1966. In selecting the Labor Day weekend the Council feels it has provided a date convenient for both the undergraduate and graduate Brother. Many alumni Brothers and their families are expected to be in attendance and a program for their enjoyment has been arranged.

U.S. Steel Executive to Speak

Edwin H. Gott, Psi '29, Vice-President-Production of the United States Steel Corporation will address the Delegates and Guest attending the Congress Banquet on Saturday. Brother Gott is President of the Briarfield Association, and is in close touch with educational developments and fraternity affairs. Several years ago, Brother Gott spoke to a group of undergraduates gathered for a regional meeting. The content of the remarks were so meaningful that they were later printed and distributed to many chapters of other fraternities.

Sunday Outing

A trip to the lush and hilly farm area of Butler County Pennsylvania is in store for the delegates late Sunday afternoon. We will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Yoder, Alpha-Tau '41 at their mushroom farm, West Winfield, Pa., where we will be served a picnic dinner, catered by the Butler Country Club. Transportation will be provided to and from the Hotel for all those needing it.

Congress will open with Registration and the first business session is scheduled for 9:30 A.M., September 3rd. Official business will be conducted all day Saturday and most of Sunday. Congress

“Understanding is the Beginning of Strong Foundation”

Dartmouth Chi Phi Tells of Experience with International Voluntary Services in Viet-Nam

By MURPH COHON, Chi '65

In 1953 a group of fourteen men founded the International Voluntary Services. These men were hoping to meet the needs of underdeveloped countries by giving young Americans a chance to work alongside the people of that country. Their hopes were realized when I.V.S. came to Viet-Nam in 1957. Since then IVSers have engaged in a variety of tasks ranging from the building of new schools to the construction of pit privies; or from the introduction of sweet potatoes as a crop to the teaching of English in the public schools.

At present I.V.S. Viet-Nam has forty members who work in one of three teams: Agriculture, Education, or Science. I.V.S. plans to add a Community Development team this year. In spite of its small size and the problems caused by the war I.V.S. has been received well by the people. One reason for this acceptance is the IVSer's ability to speak Vietnamese. Only a very few westerners can speak this difficult tonal language. All IVSers receive six weeks of intensive language training before beginning their jobs.

I joined the I.V.S. Education team after graduating from Dartmouth last June. After attending language school at a town on the Mekong River, I was assigned to teach English in the coastal city of Vung Tau. I am fortunate in my assignment. All I.V.S. assignments are in secure areas, but Vung Tau has the added advantage of a beautiful beach on the South China Sea.

Classes at my high school began in early September. Because of earlier experiences I.V.S. has found that an American instructor accomplishes more by teaching beginning classes. I teach 150 students in the sixth and seventh grades for twenty hours a week. Teaching English as a second language is a challenge. We teach by the oral method: speaking first and having the students imitate us as closely as possible. I was disappointed because repeating phrases like "This is a box." to six classes a day can be tiring. The challenge, I discovered, is to present the material in an interesting fashion. The more novel the approach, the better the students respond. It's a pleasure to watch them learn.

An English teacher is in great demand in Viet-Nam. Not only students are interested in speaking English. I continue to be approached by people who want to study, and, unfortunately, I have to turn them away. I teach a voluntary class three nights a week to a group of people whose ages range from 15 to 64. All IVSers, whether involved in Agriculture, Science, or Education, invariably teach some English. These additional classes give much enjoyment because of the interest of the students. If the class speaks well, the IVSer will often organize an English Club. These clubs meet for parties, games, and some lively discussions comparing the customs of Viet-Nam and the U.S.

I.V.S. also encourages its teachers to become involved in work outside the classroom. In October I found out that many students wanted to do social work in Vung Tau. I was enthused about this.

We may help stimulate social change, but the impetus must come from a population desiring to work for that change. Billions of dollars of economic aid doesn't accomplish anything unless the people want to help themselves.

We organized a Youth Group at the high school. The organization of this group was a good example of a westerner's lack of understanding about Asia. During the election of officers, there were violent arguments about undemocratic proceedings. Questions about democracy were raised that I was unable to answer even though I speak the language adequately. It was a frightening experience for me. Other IVSers have had similar things happen to them. Not everything we do turns out as planned.

The election was completed finally. The Youth Group has done some good work at a rural hamlet that was destroyed by fire. We are also constructing a privy at a boys elementary school. This project is not going well. We began originally with 220 students and after two months were down to about fifty. There are now only twenty students. Last Sunday morning I worked by myself with some seven year old kids who were playing near the school. It's frustrating. But today there was a larger turnout of students. All I hope to do is convey enthusiasm to the students. It's not easy for an eighteen year old boy to understand the concept of national responsibility. It is especially difficult in Viet-Nam which knows political instability only and which is ethnically and regionally divided. The IVS-er's job is to increase the people's interest and awareness. We hope that they will come to understand why they are doing the work.

The solution to the problems of countries like Viet-Nam begins with raising the standards of the population so that the people become aware of their needs and work to improve themselves. In a letter dated June 17, 1964, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge wrote: "Perhaps the most heartening aspect of their work is also the least measurable—the tremendous amount of good will and respect they have earned among their many Vietnamese friends and colleagues. It is with the Vietnamese people, and among the youth in particular, that the I.V.S. workers with their quiet competence and understanding are making such a strong impression." I.V.S. projects fail, as I am learning, and not all the impressions we leave are good. But the strength of I.V.S. is its desire to understand and learn from the people of Viet Nam and to let them understand and learn from us. Understanding is the beginning of a strong foundation on which to build a nation.

The Student And How He Is Led

By DR. WILLIAM C. MORSE,
Professor of Educational Psychology

DR. MORSE addressed the University of Michigan Fraternity President's Assembly about the problems involved with being a peer leading peers. The address was printed in the Michigan Fraternity Commentary, December, 1965. Both parent and student will find the remarks provide a unique and valuable insight into the behavior of college students.

PRESSURE POINTS:

Any college student is undergoing a transitional period from an adolescent to an adult, and this makes him very sensitive to the influences or norms of his environment. This problem is compounded by the fact that many former hotshots find they're nobodies once they come to college.

People are simply tired of going to school—the preparation for preparation saps their initiative. Harvard University found that in many cases students needed a year off from school, as they just couldn't become motivated to study.

There is also a feeling that being a college student gives one a license for wildness, to "live compulsively as a way of life." Because there is so much pressure with being a student, students feel they deserve a release from all the tensions and use this as an excuse to rationalize almost anything.

Other disrupting factors come from anxiety over the sexual revolution and social traumas. The student has to experiment for himself to find what is expected and what is acceptable among his peer groups. Anxiety over social traumas was indicated by the inability to conduct classes during the Cuban crisis. Of course the parallel to this is the present issue of Viet Nam, both from a policy point of view and a draft point of view.

There is also considerable anxiety caused by people not knowing what they want to do. Students suffering from such indecision usually find it very difficult to get motivated to study, and consequently their confidence in their self-control is shaken. Most people change their career aspirations at least twice before they finish their formal education. This problem becomes particularly serious as a student gets further through his studying, as often he is not allowed to switch his area of concentration because he would have to make up so many requirements.

There is also a dilemma stemming from the conflict of dependency and independency. Supposedly, when he comes to college he is expected to become self-sufficient or independent, yet at the same time he is still financially tied and, for lack of a better term, scholastically responsible through grades to his parents. He would like to be like some people who have cars and "money to blow," yet he knows that this is a freedom he can never enjoy.

LIVING-IN SITUATION:

The first thing a student finds upon coming to college is that there are no authority patterns as he had at home. Authority is of a delegated nature, unlike the natural parental and "elders" authority he has lived under before. He therefore has to test it in his adjustment. He may leave an "anonymous bottle" to see what happens. If nothing happens he may casually mention all the bottles that are being mysteriously left around, or he may resort to something more noticeable or flagrant.

He also encounters "institutional shock," which involves problems of establishing identity and role as well as adjusting to new norms and social mores. He has to sort out power hierarchy or "pecking order," sparring around within the group to determine his own status and role. He also finds it necessary to do a lot of complaining to establish his identity. Sometimes a person gets a role he doesn't like. Sometime when he is clowning around he may find his behavior appreciated by the group; subsequently getting the role of clown and thereby has to act in a way that is not natural to him.

Institutional shock also comes from the lack of community norms consistent with his own. He is used to having his ideas reinforced by most of the people around him. But now he doesn't find such a consistent opinion pattern, and this shakes up many of his beliefs. He finds others that have completely opposite beliefs who feel just as "right" as he does and can no more understand his beliefs than he can theirs. Making friends is harder, for the depersonalization of the University makes personalization more difficult.

Even transfer students undergo this shock in that they too must adjust to the atmosphere of Michigan. Our orientation toward grad school, the fact that you often don't have a professor until your third year, the impersonal counseling where you have to go to them . . . all these things are in many ways peculiar to Michigan.

There is a great deal of disillusionment with the dissolution of fantasies. He came thinking he'd be a BMOC, finds he's just nobody. He came thinking he'd find fascinating and provocative courses, but all he finds is the "same old junk."

Strong leadership demands the development of positive group norms

Disillusioned with his courses, with his own importance, and in many cases with his ideas, the student just can't seem to get involved with his courses and can't seem to control his own behavior. He subsequently loses confidence in himself because he seems incapable of getting down to work. He'd give anything to be able to study and get good grades. His problems are compounded by the guy who doesn't have to work at all but still gets good grades without having to study . . . the guy who just reads things once and understands it perfectly. Just when he's knocking himself out to understand something, this gifted individual gets back from the movies, telling everyone what a great picture he's just seen. He wanders into the hapless student's room and drops some remark like "Are you actually studying this stuff? I never opened a book and I got an 'A'." Needless to say this remark just makes the guy feel like he's a complete ignoramus and totally destroys all his self-confidence.

Thus without confidence in his beliefs and character, the student is particularly prone to influence from those who do seem self-confident. In all informal groups group behavior generally consists of certain people, the "vocalizers," pulling in the "periphery," and what is attributed to the group doing as a whole is really a number of people just following the influence of the informal leaders. The student's confused psychological state reinforces this phenomenon.

THE EFFECTS OF THESE CONDITIONS

The past conditions influence the type of attitude an officer will encounter, the way he should handle problem behavior, and the way he can affect desirable behavior.

An officer is apt to encounter the following attitudes. "You were elected to keep me in line, so do it. My responsibility is now yours. You sound just like my old man. You're a University agent, so why should I follow you?" The general result is sort of a "social gamesmanship." It is the same thing that makes it so satisfying to put one over on the police.

The general psychology is to make the leader feel insecure—to make him into something that he can't handle. People try to pull the leader out of his authority. "How can he do this to me when we're such good friends?"

They more or less figuratively put up a fence and tell the leader to pick one side or the other.

When a leader encounters problem behavior he must first determine its source, for often somebody else puts a person up to doing something. When he encounters problems from a group, he should first approach the informal leaders of the group. Above all, he must realize that everyone does something for a reason, and often they won't tell him the real reason. Problem behavior is an outward manifestation of some inner problem, and unless a leader approaches a situation with this thought in mind he probably won't get to the root of trouble.

In actually dealing with the individual, the leader must get some idea of the person's powers of perception by having him interpret some reality situation. Secondly he must get him talking about himself and then try to direct his thinking so that he can figure out the problem himself. Also the officer should never moralize or put him on the defensive. If he said that he was "just throwing rocks at cars because he felt like it," don't condemn him with "Anybody with a brain in his head should have more sense than that," but just remark that "You certainly have an interesting philosophy of life." He knows just as well as you do that his answer is ridiculous but if you antagonize him he will never tell you in a hundred years what the real reason is. As long as you don't antagonize him, leave him a way out, and keep him talking, sooner or later you can get to the base of the problem. You should always keep in mind, however, that many problems are beyond your abilities and that qualified counseling through the University should be considered.

Effective leadership will never come from just dealing with problems, however, for strong leadership demands the development of positive group norms. It is not enough for a top officer to be continually telling people what they should do. After all, he's supposed to do that—that's his job. But when people respected in the house who are informal leaders start censuring someone's stupid or inconsiderate behavior, when they start reminding people of their responsibility to the group, when they make it a point to encourage someone to study and congratulate him when he tries hard, then positive norms are emphasized and group behavior improves. In effect, good leadership demands the efforts of both formal and informal leaders, because only in this way the powerful positive norms that are the basis for good group performance will be generated.

Tech and Emory Host First Southeastern Basketball Tournament

By JOHN A. TAILOR, ZD

GEORGIA 54 — TECH 49

IN a hair raising-feet stomping finish a spirited Georgia quintet combined outstanding rebounding and exceptional playmaking in standing off a last quarter rally by a determined and hard driving Georgia Tech team to capture a 54-49 victory thus walking off with the well earned "CHAMPIONSHIP" of "The First Annual Chi Phi Southeastern Basketball Tournament." It was a six game-six team tournament held on February 26-27, 1966, in Atlanta and comprised of teams from Chi Phi Chapters at Emory University, The University of Georgia, Georgia Institute of Technology, and The University of Alabama together with teams from our Colonies at Auburn University and Florida State University.

The game, played in Georgia Tech's Freshman Gym, was fast all the way with each team frequently fast breaking the other. In the scoring department Hardy King and Hugh Arnold were the difference as their combined scores accounted for 37 of Georgia's 54 points.

Gary Smith and Bruce Troutman were heavy in the scoring column for Georgia Tech as they combined to account for 33 of their team's 49 points. Troutman's long 6' 5" frame was important to Tech's rebounding efforts. Outstanding playmaking by Asher and Smith for Tech and Jones for Georgia provided both squads with tremendous ability to penetrate the other's defense.

OPENING ROUNDS — HARD FOUGHT

Both Georgia and Georgia Tech found it hard work earning the right to play in the Tournament finals.

The Tournament's opening round, which was held in Emory University's field house, saw Alabama pitted against Georgia and Emory vs. Georgia Tech. Auburn and Florida State teams were given a bye and played the winners of the first two games in round two.

Round One

Georgia was just too big, as they rolled over a fiery Alabama squad 69-57. The game was spiced with flashes of individual excellence by members of both teams.

Hardy King, who seemed to be everywhere at once, scored a resounding 32 points, and Bill Jones displayed exceptional playmaking.

Shull for Alabama, with what was said by many to be the deadliest shot in the tournament, scored 24 points despite a recurring knee injury. Bullen with four points and Clark with 12 were also impressive.

Georgia Tech's first round against Emory was not easily won. Saxon, Pittinger, Kingsberry and Spitzer all scored well and provided many moments of anxiety for the tall men from Tech.

An Asher, Smith, Troutman combination proved too tough, however, as Tech finally pulled away in the second half to win 73-61.

Round Two

The second round, also held at Emory, saw Georgia Tech crush a small and inexperienced Florida State Colony 77-20, while a too big Georgia squad slugged out a 66-45 victory over Auburn. Florida State Colony's defeat at the hands of a too tall Tech team proved to be a victory for them as they showed how not to give up. Not once did the men from Florida falter in their will to do the best they could despite a steadily increasing point spread.

Georgia had to work hard to get by an "up" Auburn squad. Georgia's Hardy King was again the difference as he scored 36 of his team's 66 points. Auburn proved to be a stubborn opponent, however, using frequent fast breaks and good over-all team play. Murray with 15 points and Dawles with 12 were the heavy guns for Auburn.

AUBURN AND F.S.U. COLONIES — BIG SURPRISE

Auburn Decisive Over F.S.U. As Colonies Clash In Consolation Game

In a Sunday morning preliminary to the championship game, Auburn and F.S.U. squared off in what proved to be a one sided 62-14 victory for Auburn.

Dawles' big 22 points led the way for Auburn, while the entire team evidenced good playmaking and sound shooting ability.

Auburn was the surprise of the tournament as they made a tremendous showing despite the fact they have been an organized group for less than two years. This team could be a real threat next year.

F.S.U., which is a brand new group, showed everyone what courage means. Being a new group they did not have a basketball team, but they were not to be left out for that reason. They came anyway and were the hit of the tourney with their never-give-up attitude. WATCH THESE MEN NEXT YEAR!

R. Garnett Hall, Jr., Epsilon '62

R. Garnett Hall Named Council Representative

The Epsilon Chapter recently named, in February 1966, R. Garnett Hall, Jr. ('62) to the position of Council Representative for the chapter. Brother Hall succeeds Brother John Bruce James, Jr., of Richmond, Virginia who has so ably served in this position since 1957.

Born in Richmond, Virginia, Brother Hall was educated at St. Christopher's, an Episcopal Preparatory School in Richmond. Upon graduation from St. Christopher's in June 1958, he entered Hampden-Sydney College in September and pledged Chi Phi that fall.

During his four years at Hampden-Sydney, Garnett was elected to Pi Delta Epsilon and Sigma Upsilon, Honorary fraternities. Among curricular activities, he served as Editor of the College Literary magazine, Managing Editor of the yearbook and Vice-President of the College Glee Club. In Chi Phi he held the offices of Gamma and Beta during Junior and Senior years, respectively.

Upon graduation from Hampden-Sydney in June 1962, Brother Hall fulfilled his military service with the U. S. Air Force and the Virginia Air National Guard. He became associated with State-Planters Bank of Commerce and Trusts in November of that year. In August, 1964, he became Manager of a suburban branch of the Bank and in July, 1965 was promoted to Administrative Assistant of the Bank's largest branch office. In March, 1966, was promoted Assistant Cashier of the Bank.

Brother Hall is a Richmond Jaycee, at present serving as Ass't Director of their Youth and Sports Area. He is a member of the Board of Directors and Assistant Treasurer of the Virginia Travel Council, Inc. An "ardent bachelor", (at least for 1966!), he is President this year of the Richmond Bachelors Club, having served a three year tenure on its Board of Directors. A member of First Presbyterian Church, he is currently serving on the Ushers Guild of the church.

Brother Hall has maintained a keen interest in the progress and activities of Epsilon Chapter during the past several years as an alumnus. In addition to being Alumni Advisor as Council Representative, he is a member of the Board of Trustees of Epsilon of Chi Phi Educational Foundation, Inc. and serves as Vice-President of the Foundation.

Kappa's 50th Anniversary

On March 11, 1916 the Park Hotel, Madison, Wisconsin was the site of a banquet honoring Chi Phi's installation on campus. Fifty years later to the day, the same hotel was used for a Banquet to commemorate the founding. The next evening a dinner dance brought an end to a glorious week-end celebration.

Among the highlights were the presentation of 50 year pins to ten Charter Members—the serving of Rose's Chi Phi pie (a tradition)—Art Upgren's cock-eyed economic analysis (Brother Upgren is an outstanding national economist)—John Porter receiving a watch on the occasion of his retirement as Treasurer of the Association—the playing of "Kappa Echoes" which was prepared by Roy Ragatz and John Porter—the Memorial Service conducted by Alpha, Dave Otto —the last payment on the loan from Chi Phi Educational Trust—and the 300 alumni, actives, wives and dates who attended.

The University of Arizona Colony To Be Chartered in May

At 4:00 P.M. on May 14 at the Skyline Country Club, Tucson, Arizona, the Council presented a charter to 20 members of the Arizona Colony.

The new chapter to be known as Lambda Delta, is the 38th chapter of Chi Phi and the first in the state of Arizona.

The chartering was celebrated with a Dinner Dance at the Skyline Club at 6:30 P.M. the same evening.

The Colony was formally established by the Council in September 1965 under the direction of Dennis P. McCarter E D '64 T D '65. During the first year a total of 29 men affiliated with the group. The group operated without a house during the 1964-65 year, and used University facilities and member rooms for rushing and meetings.

Through the generosity and efforts of John Matthews, a house was secured for the group during the summer recess of 1965 and was ready for occupancy when school opened in September. While the usual mortality reduced the group's strength at the beginning of the second year, their determination to achieve their charter was undiminished. Along with the recruitment of more members it was necessary to achieve a colony grade point equal to the University All-Men's Average. This was accomplished during the fall semester and the University officially granted recognition to the group in late March 1966.

The alumni who have worked most actively with the colony during the formative period are Theodore W. Kramer, III M '39, Chapter Advisor; John H. Matthews, A-X '38, Council Representative, Charles J. Hill, S '43, Treasurer, Arizona Chi Phi Alumni Association and John D. Frakes, S '25, president of the Association.

At 96 "Hale and Hearty"

Dr. Herbert M. Platter A-X '92 is now residing at Lutheran Senior City, Columbus, Ohio. Brother Platter is 96 years old and may very well be the oldest living Chi Phi. His recent note enclosing a check for his alumni dues said, "I am hale and hearty and in possession of all faculties. Friends may call."

Former Grand Beta, Dr. James Moye Z '32 Subject of Article

The Rev. James W. Moyer, a member of the Franklin & Marshall College Board of Trustees, and President of the Pennsylvania Central Conference, United Church of Christ, is the subject of a lead article in a recent issue of the United Church Herald, the journal of the United Church of Christ.

Entitled "Jim Moyer—The Lord's

Mighty Hunter," the article opens with this paragraph:

"Throughout Pennsylvania and much of the rest of the nation, the Rev. James W. Moyer is known as a modern Nimrod. His hobby—perhaps it should be called his avocation—has won him a reputation similar to that of the Old Testament character as a 'mighty hunter before the Lord.'"

The writer adds: "Hunting is serious business for this gifted preacher and administrator and the appellation of 'mighty hunter' carries over into his 14 hour-a-day, seven day-a-week job as President of the Penn. Central Conference."

Pi To Miss Schlosser

Rudolph O. Schlosser, Jr., Pi '51, formerly of Evanston, Illinois, recently relocated in St. Paul Minnesota where he is associated with Farwell, Ozman, Kirk and Company, independent wholesale hardware distributors. Brother Schlosser served until very recently as the President of Pi Association of Chi Phi, Inc., and was one of several alumni Brothers responsible for Pi's successful growth and development during the past ten years. His counsel at the association meetings will be missed.

The Date Debate

Reverend Celian Ufford, Kappa '19, of Hollywood, California, calls attention to the fact that the World Almanac, 1965, incorrectly lists our founding date as 1854.

Brother Ufford is correct in stating the World Almanac is in error, however, Bairds Manual, the accepted source on fraternity history and lore, refuses to accept as valid our 1824 founding.

George Banta, the first editor of Bairds Manual, challenged the 1824 date in the first edition printed in 1879. A long running debate between Chi Phi and the Editors has never changed their position.

Tech and Emory Tournament

SAXON AND JOHNSON TOURNEY CO-CHAIRMEN

Credit for the success of The First Annual Southeastern Basketball Tournament goes to two men from our Emory and Georgia Tech Chapters, who hosted this first tournament, in Atlanta.

Terry Saxon, a sophomore from Marietta, Georgia, with the help of fellow Emory men, handled the tournament's activities at Emory. The successful acquisition of Emory's field house, the splendid Saturday morning brunch for tourney participants and the furnishing of Gamma's house for a Saturday night party all resulted from his efforts.

Neal Johnson, a junior from Atlanta, Georgia, helped by fellow Georgia Tech men, acquired Tech's Freshman gym, provided the tournament's referees and handled all administrative details. Special notice is given of Tom Mobley's efforts in providing the proper spirit for Saturday night's party. Tom is a senior from Augusta, Georgia, and is Alpha of the Omega (Georgia Tech) Chapter.

JOHN E. OLIVER AWARD TROPHY

PRIDE THE KEY TO SUCCESS

Atlanta, Ga.—Brother John Oliver, H '17 presented the magnificent John E. Oliver Award Trophy (see picture) to Eta (Georgia) Chapter's tournament-winning basketball team before a large group of tourney participants and area alumni and their wives. Among those present were: Brother and Mrs. Richard DeGolian, H '33; the Fraternity's Grand Eta, Brother Bates Block, G '40 H '42; and Brother Charles M. Davis, Ome '55, Chi Phi's Southeastern Regional Chairman.

Brother Oliver encouraged the winning team "To display their trophy with pride. Pride in the knowledge that this represented a hard won victory. A victory resulting from team work, desire and personal pride which stimulated the utmost effort necessary to win." He further stated that "if all young men dedicate themselves to this pride, never abandon it, and keep it always a part of their every effort, they will lead a personally successful and rewarding life."

Brother Oliver and the other alumni present were quoted as being "most impressed" with the good fellowship, outstanding team work and dedicated effort of all tournament participants.

Fred C. Lovitt, A '37 Memphis, Tennessee

Brother Lovitt, a native of Memphis, attended the University of Virginia. Following graduation he was a partner in L. B. Lovitt & Co., Memphis, dealers and brokers in Soybean and Cottonseed products until 1956. From 1956 to 1964 he was proprietor of his own Soybean and Cottonseed brokerage firm. In 1964 he joined E. F. Hutton & Company as an account executive.

Brother Lovitt is President of the Chi Phi Club of Memphis, President of University of Virginia Alumni Association, Memphis chapter, and President of Memphis Board of Trade.

I. B. Countryman, Sigma '17 Riverside, San Bernadino, Palm Springs and vicinity, California

Brother Countryman retired from the Texaco, Inc. in 1957. Several years later he and his wife moved to Corona Del Mar where he now resides.

"I. B." was instrumental in organizing both the Chi Phi Club of Indiana and the Iota Delta chapter at Indiana University. It was largely through his efforts that funds were raised to build the Indiana Chapter house.

Working with Brother Countryman will be Donald Countryman, S '40, his son, who resides in Riverside. This should be a tough combination to beat.

James R. Moore L '33 Northern California

Brother Moore is co-chairman along with Richard Ham, L '33 of the important San Francisco and Northern California area.

He is President of Moore Securities Company and the Vice President of the Moore Dry Dock Company, San Francisco.

He is one of California's distinguished citizens having served as President of The Society of California Pioneers, Director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, Chairman of the Or-La-Mo District, Mt. Kappa Delta Chartered

Feb. 5, 1966

The new chapter was installed under severe weather conditions. One of the worst blizzards in years hit Rochester the weekend prior to the chartering. Since the digging out process took a week to ten days, it is understandable that the alumni and colony members alike spent some anxious moments debating—to cancel or not.

With the decision not to cancel, the visiting delegates were called by phone and told to fly to Rochester rather than drive. All arrived safely and the initiations were underway by 4:00 p.m. Friday afternoon. The last man, number 24, was initiated Saturday about 1:00 p.m. The Installation of the chapter took place later that afternoon and was suitably celebrated at a dinner dance that evening.

A public presentation of the charter was made by the Grand Alpha to Brother Barnhart, Alpha of the chapter. Dr. Kenneth Clark, Dean of College of Arts and Sciences, University of Rochester, welcomed the new fraternity to the campus, in the absence of Brother Wilson Allen Wallis, Gamma Delta '32, president of the University of Rochester, who was unable to attend due to prior commitments.

The initiation ceremonies were conducted at the home of Brother and Mrs. W. T. Hanson, Eta '31, Rochester, N.Y. The Council and the chapter are deeply indebted to the Hanson family for the use of their home for the twelve hours of initiations did much to interrupt the family's normal life. The chapter will not have a chapter house for several years, thus special arrangements will have to be made to handle future initiations.

The chapter has quarters in one of the University dormitory units. Within two to three years the University plans to provide new units for the five fraternities not presently housed in their own facility.

Brother Hiram Hanson, Eta '33 and Allen Schoennegge, Xi '61, Council Representative and Chapter Advisor respectively, worked closely with the colony from the day it was formally recognized by Chi Phi. The new chapter is deeply indebted to both for their valuable counsel and assistance.

Charter Members Barnhart, Schoenegge and Putnam inspect Kappa Delta Charter. Charles Barnhart is the Alpha. Schoenegge, the Chapter Advisor, graduated from Cornell where he was a member of Xi. Tom Putnam, a June '66 graduate, was the Colony president.

Two members of the chapter hold the cherished Charter, Chi Phi's 37th.

Brothers from F & M and the Univ. of Michigan who assisted with the installation. The other chapters present for the installation were Cornell and Stevens Inst.

The National Director seems to have the finger on the Alpha. In the background enjoying a laugh with Brother Dockery are Bates Block, Grand Eta and Bill Jeckell, Grand Delta.

Grand Alpha Joseph R. Dockery reads the Charter to the 24 new Brothers of Kappa Delta.

Brother Daniel Ward, Stevens Inst. of Technology, delivering the lecture to the new initiates.

College Degree Today Draft Call Tomorrow?

If you've just finished college, or are in your final year, you have an especially difficult problem. You're understandably eager to launch your business career. But first, you've got the draft to face. Or do you?

The Army has a better idea. It's a plan that can give greater impetus to your career than you could expect in private business. A plan whereby you learn to supervise large groups of men. Make involved managerial decisions. All in a matter of months, not years.

And at an age when others are still absorbing the rudiments.

We're talking about becoming an officer in the U.S. Army. Qualify and we'll guarantee enrollment in Officer Candidate School. You can apply anytime during your senior year.

Make no mistake about the demands of OCS. It's not easy. You must have a strong desire to lead men. But the reward is equal to the demands. With your commission, you'll have the authority and prestige to match your new management responsibilities.

Your nearest Army Recruiting Office has the full story. You can take the OCS test there with no obligation. And if you pass and enter OCS, you can congratulate yourself on finding an intelligent alternative to the draft.

Use the coupon at right if it's more convenient. And remember: leadership can be taught, is being taught, in today's new action Army.
